As it dawns another year,
In my lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever dear.
The fight is over, the victory won,
But, oh, the grave and pain,
And longing for the one that sleeps
Alone across the main.

MORE THAN EVER
is it essential in these strenuous days to bestow careful attention upon the General Health. The pace of life, ever growing faster, makes very great demands upon the men and women of the present time. Life was rather leisurely "in the good old days"—as they are sometimes called. A breakdown in health to-day is, unfortunately quite a frequent occurrence. Often it comes gradually, commencing with some slight—apparently trifling—indisposition; but there is always the danger that, unless the proper measures are taken in time, the trouble may have serious results. There is one thing
YOU NEED
to remember and that is, that a breakdown in health may, as often as not, have its origin in derangement of the digestive system. These important organs soon begin to suffer from the effects of hurried meals, worry, overwork, insufficient exercise and recreation and lack of fresh air. Pains after eating, flatulence, constipation, sick headaches, bilious attacks and other well-known distressing symptoms make their appearance. Now is the time to take Beecham's Pills and to keep on taking them until you feel quite fit again. The reputation of this great digestive medicine is world-wide. Its success in the relief and removal of digestive troubles has been remarkable—perhaps unparalleled. You are quite safe in taking

PEMBROKE URBAN DISTRICT COUNCIL.

MOTION ON IRISH GOVERNMENT REFUSED.

A meeting of Pembroke Urban District Council was held in the Town Hall, Pembroke, yesterday evening, Mr. William Beckett, Chairman, presiding.

Mr. Bartholomew O'Connor moved:—"That this Council of the elected representatives of the Pembroke Urban District, at a duly convened meeting, demand the recognition of such form of government as the majority of the Irish people select."

The Chairman ruled the motion out of order.

Mr. O'Connor—On what grounds?

Chairman—I won't say on what grounds. Next business.

Mr. Curran asked was the resolution ruled out of order because it referred to Ireland.

The Chairman declined to give his reason and called for the next business.

Mr. Byrne moved that the Council should protest against the action of the Chairman in ruling the motion out of order.

The Chairman—The Council does not protest. You protest.

Mr. Greene seconded the motion, but

Mr. O'Connor said he would leave the room as a protest, and Mrs. Humphreys, Messrs. Byrne, Greene, and Curran also left the room.

The matter then ended.

DONNYBROOK TRAMCAR SERVICES.

Sir Gabriel Stokes proposed to send a reply to the letter of the Dublin United Tramways Company relative to the tramcar service between Baggot street Bridge and the Donnybrook terminus, setting out a case for improved service on this line.

The matter having been discussed, it was decided to request the Tramway Company to give a six minutes' service between Baggot street Bridge and Donnybrook terminus instead of the present eight minutes' service.

Routine business having been transacted, the meeting concluded.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

"THE YEOMEN OF THE GUARD."

Last night the "Yeomen of the Guard" was staged at the Gaiety Theatre. In spite of the depression of the weather and the pending discomforts of a general strike, the house was packed to the limit of its capacity. The Yeomen is a queer opera. Both Gilbert and Sullivan put something new into their creation of Jack Point and his tragi-comic fortunes are in striking contrast to the rest of the work. One never knows whether to laugh or cry with the quasi-Shakesperean jester,

"Who sipped no sup, and who craved no crumb
As he sighed for the love of a ladye."

Mr. Lytton was excellent in this difficult part. He was "merry, wise, quaint, grim, and sardonic one by one" and "all at once." Remembering him as Ko-ko and the Duke of Plaza Toro, one was, no doubt, inclined to suspect his grief, and no one could imagine him as a Gilbertian Pagliaccio. His partner, Miss Cecil, improves on acquaintance. She was a charming Elsie, and in her duet with Jack Point gave us one of the best pieces of singing. Miss Bertha Lewis as Dame Carruthers looked extremely dignified, and was careful to avoid burlesque. Her voice was heard to its best advantage in the Tower song, and she was forced to respond to applause that would not be denied. Miss Ferguson made a piquant Phœbe. Her vivacious personality lent itself to the part, but she was inclined to overdo the burlesque in "Were I thy bride" with Shadbolt. The whole work is itself burlesque, and additional stress is unnecessary. Mr. Sheffield, who otherwise was excellent as the Assistant Tormentor, infected perhaps by Phœbe's fun, was also inclined to exaggerate. Nevertheless, the audience was highly delighted, and that, after all, is the main thing. Mr. Granville was in a rather unaccustomed rôle as the Lieutenant, but he sang with distinction and did well all that came his way. Mr. Hobbs as Sergeant Meryll, and Mr. Arthur Lucas as his son, sang and acted in finished style. We preferred Mr. Oldham in some of his other, and more youthful, parts. On the whole, his singing was up to his usual high standard, but in "Is life a boon?" a tendency to employ an ugly upward slur was very noticeable. Mr. Oldham is a charming tenor, who knows how to sing. He is generally quite free from mannerisms of this kind, and will forgive us for this little criticism.

To-night—"Princess Ida."

THE THEATRE ROYAL.

Dr. Henry Coward and his Sheffield Choir appeared last evening at the Theatre Royal, and gave a very fine vocal entertainment. They are a highly-trained company of singers, numbering about forty—twenty ladies and twenty gentlemen. Dr. Coward himself conducted, and it was good to see how magnificently he managed his talented and well-balanced company. Their repertoire is extensive and well-selected, having regard to their fine capacity and their delightful performance. They gave two or three glees in excellent style. The lullaby, "Sweet and Low," was a memorable piece of choral work, as was also "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower." Among other selections was "The Dear Little Shmrock." The Choir had an enthusiastic reception. The Ilott Quartette also won the hearty applause of the large audiences at both "houses." A very amusing sketch, a burlesque on life in a military camp, was that which was presented by Emmett Adams, Bruce Drysdale, J. W. Cunningham, and two others. It made the spectators laugh heartily, and will be a powerful attraction during the week. An excellent comic entertainer is Wilfrid Burnand, who, in the character of an old beau, sings a couple of songs which go very well. The "Charlie Chaplin's Night Out" might easily be shorn of some of its vulgarities, and lose none of its central qualities of amusement.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Three Labour plays were staged by the Liberty Hall Players at the Queen's Theatre last evening, and, needless to say, their presentation proved extremely popular. The programme consisted of a tragedy, "Victims," by Mr. A. P. Wilson, and two comedies, "Aunt Maria," by Miss Rose McKenna, and "Harmony," by Mr. Nicholas Hayes. The artists displayed much earnestness in their parts, though their work generally was somewhat crude; but, considering that it was a corps of amateurs which was responsible for the plays, the performance was creditable.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

An enjoyable programme was presented at the Empire Theatre last evening in the presence of large audiences. Hall and Neal are amusing artists, who create much fun by their comical glove fight; while the New Macs also provoke merriment by their clever cross-talk and patter. G. W. Fyvie is also successful in a series of popular songs. Tom Douglas, a favourite artist, sings pleasantly and dances with customary grace. Other items which add to the merit of the programme are those contributed by the Two Sunrays, comediennes and dancers; Victor Hagan and Old Folks in "A Touch of Nature"; Harry Lyons, baritone; and Billie and Doris Harley, Australia's merry dancing pair. The orchestra contributes some admirable selections.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

The programme at the Tivoli Theatre this week is quite up to the best level at this house of entertainment. Large audiences last evening had plenty of amusement, and they thoroughly enjoyed the fare provided for them. The Four Richards disported themselves in a wonderfully brilliant manner in a sketch, which was received with unqualified enthusiasm. Billy and Doris Harley, a pair of Australians gave a nice little show, in which smart stories and artistic dance formed a most acceptable part. Jack Lyndo and Dorothy Moore appeared in a clever and interesting comedy act. Blanche and Boston, the juggling Geisha and the Eccentric Chinaman, are a couple of very original merry-makers, and their performance left nothing to be desired, only that it was all too short. Alphonsus Brazil, baritone, and Nita Bartlett, a good vocalist, contributed items, which were well received. Bonando and Francis served their turn admirably, and an entertainer named Sisco proved himself a musician of merit. The orchestra, under Mr. Taylor, played a nice selection, including parts from the "Barber of Seville" at the interval.

KINGSTOWN PAVILION.—A big attraction was presented at the Kingstown Pavilion last night in the film, "The Rocks of Valpré," a story from the pen of the popular novelist, Ethel M. Dell. The audience found it wholly satisfying, and the night's entertainment was greatly enhanced by the musical programme provided by Madame Lucy Donnelly's capable little orchestra. Chaplin, in "Behind the Screen," was a great success, and, together with the "Ideal Varieties" and "Around the Town," made part of a most enjoyable entertainment. The topical gazette and comedy pictures completed a capital programme. For Thursday another good programme has been arranged.

KINGSTOWN PICTURE HOUSE.—Unity Moore, in "The Thunder Cloud," was the principal feature at the Kingstown Picture House last night. The audience enjoyed the presentation of a fine film by a clever artist, and manifested their appreciation heartily. The programme as a whole was most enjoyable, music, comedy, and topics making up a generous entertainment. "Britain's Submarine Dreadnoughts" were a feature.

ITALIAN AEROPLANES SHOT DOWN BY ARABS.

An Allahabad telegram dated Saturday says: A Baghdad message to the Pioneer states that the two Italian airmen who arrived there on the 7th, Captain Gordesco and Lieutenant Grassi, the latest competitors in the Rome flight, report that two other machines which left Rome with them were shot down with machine-guns by Arabs outside Aleppo. Both machines were kept by the Arabs, but the aviators were allowed to return via Constantinople. One of the aviators shot down was an Italian ace, who went through the war without receiving injury.

ARRESTS OF SINN FEIN MEMBERS.

The Speaker, in the House of Commons yesterday, announced that he had received letters from the Competent Military Authority in Ireland stating that Mr. P. J. Ward, M.P. for Donegal South; Mr. Joseph O'Connor Sweeney, M.P., Donegal West; Mr. Shanahan, M.P., Harbour Division, Dublin; and Mr. L. Ginnell, M.P., Westmeath, had been committed to prison, but that Mr. Ginnell had been released from custody.

THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

A first calculation of the income of the Church Missionary Society for the year ended March 31st, 1920, shows that the sum of £665,000 from all sources has been received. The income for the previous year was £442,783. Though there is every reason to be deeply thankful for this result, it is stated that in the present circumstances an income of £700,000 would be inadequate for the efficient working of the existing C.M.S. Missions. The chief reason for this lies in the present rate of exchange, and, should this eventually go down to its average pre-war level, a regular annual income of £600,000 would maintain the present work, but would not allow for any expansion.

PROVINCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

BELFAST BREAD PRICES.—The price of bread in Belfast has been increased to 7d. for 2lb. loaf, a half-penny higher than the prices fixed in Dublin.

GOREY LABOUR TROUBLES ENDED.—The Gorey lock-out, now on the seventh week, has been amicably settled.

WEXFORD SUPPORT FOR DUBLIN HOSPITAL.—As the result of a jumble sale at Coolgreany (Co. Wexford), organised by Mrs. Murphy, wife of Dr. Murphy, in aid of the Royal City of Dublin (Baggot street) Hospital, a sum of £56 was realised.

BELFAST MIDDLE CLASSES UNION.—Yesterday a meeting was held at the Belfast Chamber of Commerce, under the chairmanship of Mr. J. Milne Barbour, D.L., at which it was decided to form a branch of the Middle Classes Union.

DECREE AGAINST IRISH TRAINER.—County Court Judge Fleming, K.C., at Mullingar Quarter Sessions, on Saturday, granted a decree for possession against the well-known Irish trainer and jockey, Mr. Leslie Brabazon, in respect of house and lands (19 acres) situate at "Woodlands," about five miles from Mullingar.

COSTLY DERRY RIOTS.—At Derry Recorder's Court Judge Osborne awarded £1,561 compensation to Derry merchants for glass broken and property looted during the riots in Derry on the night of the 15th August last. The Corporation intend appealing against the decision of the Recorder holding the ratepayers liable to pay compensation for looted property.

QUEEN VICTORIA HOME OF REST, ROSTREVOR.—The Committee of the Queen Victoria Home of Rest, Rostrevor, has recently elected Mrs. Neill as Hon. Lady Resident. The Home, which is the property of the Girls' Friendly Society in Ireland, is situated in the midst of the beautiful scenery of Carlingford Lough. It will re-open for members of the Society and other visitors on May 1st.

THE ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY.

A general meeting of the Royal Irish Academy was held yesterday afternoon, Mr. W. G. Strickland, Vice-President, in the chair. A paper by Mr. E. Heron-Allen, F.R.S., and Mr. A. Garland, F.R.M.S., was read on "An experimental study of the Foraminiferal species, Verneuilina polystropha (Reuss), and some others." In the paper the authors described the various forms assumed by the shells or tests of the Foraminifera—creatures most simple and primitive in their living substance, which yet constructed sandy or limy habitations of much beauty and complexity. So great was the range of variation in some cases that doubt was raised whether the accepted classification of these small animals, founded mostly on the shape and manner of growth of the shells or tests, could be regarded as satisfactory. The research described in the paper is, to some extent, a continuation of the valuable work done by the authors in the waters of Clew Bay in connection with a natural history survey of Clare Island. A remarkable habit of one of the species mentioned is its selection of fragments of heavy minerals, such as powdered gems, for the elaboration of its test. The paper was presented by Professor Carpenter.

A paper on "Place names and antiquities of South-East Cork, Part 3 (Barrymore)," by Rev. Patrick Power was also read.

HUNTING.

THE MEATH.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

An excellent day's sport was enjoyed from the meet at Rosnaree on the 7th inst., the first fox being found (after a blank Golen) in the gorse near the road. He led first towards the house; then, turning back and running through the Glen, was hunted fast on nearly to the Great Northern Railway at Thomastown. Here the pack bent right-handed, pointing for Knockcommon, before reaching which they marked a small hole in a fence. The fox was bolted from it without much difficulty, and went away again, but with a good scent, hounds caught him three fields further on after eighteen fast minutes. General Powell went next to Sir Francis Lambart's woodlands at Beauparc, where a badger was accounted for, the pack then getting on to the line of a fox, and marking him to ground just beyond Cole's Gate. From Hayes' laurels, with great scent, down the valley to Yellow Furze (kept on the right), into Seneschalstown. Without checking, the pack went on past the house into Skerrymount, and, with Ashfield close on the right, marked their fox to ground on Mr. Crinion's Farm. This was another good, quick gallop of twenty-two minutes over a difficult line. A very small field, less than half a dozen, went now ith the master to Harristown, which held all right. (This fox broke towards Kingston Lodge, and before reaching it turned right-handed into Hayes. With great scent hounds ran clean through, coming out at the bottom end; then by the right through Mr. M'Knight's farm, and up to Kinston Lodge. Here also the pack went on without checking, and carried a fine head down the valley pointing for Ardmulchan. Without crossing the Great Northern Railway, they turned back into Hayes' once again, went through to Mr. M'Knight's, where this time the fox succeeded in getting in after a capital though somewhat twisting hunt of fifty minutes, which brought this good day to an end. The following day, Rathmore being the venue, was a moderate one. The first fox, found in the covert, got to ground almost immediately, the next one being roused in the Allenstown Laurels. He went over the Ballybeg Station road into Mr. Connell's farm, and, crossing the Great Northern Railway, led past Admiral Tisdall's residence down to the cross-roads at Martry, there beating hounds. Oatlands and Hill of Fanyham were blank the next fox, found in Major-Collins-Gerrard's Carrig Wood in Gibstown, getting to ground without a run, which finished.

THE LOUTH HOUNDS.

Meeting at Hilltown on Friday last, this pack brought their season to a close, with a brilliant gallop from Bellewstown gorse. The first fox was found in Hilltown, and was hunted round the place and out towards Wintergrass; then back down to the house, where hounds caught him. The Carnes was blank, but there was a good fox in the gorse at the racecourse. Breaking on the top of the hill, hounds hunted at a great pace through Leggan Hall, and on by Cromwell's bush. Then swinging left-handed, they went on by Kilnue bog and Ruddle to Fowlerstown, and, leaving Harbourstown on their left, they ran on over Snowtown hill down to Ford-o-Fyne, where they marked to ground. This was about the best and fastest gallop of the season. Hounds ran hard for 35 minutes, never were touched, and made a point of 5 miles. Silverstream held a brace, one of which was killed in the covert, and the other was hunted to Mullateela hill, where he got to ground. A fox found in Dardistown was hunted through Clermont, and left-handed by Balloy on through Moorechurch, nearly to Ballygarth, where hounds were stopped.

INSTITUTION OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.

IRISH ROAD AND WATER TRANSPORT.

A meeting of the Institution of Civil Engineers of Ireland was held at 35 Dawson street, Dublin, last night—the President, Mr. P. H. McCarthy, in the chair.

In a paper on "Canals and Inland Navigation," Mr. H. Phillips gave a short description of the principal canals and navigable rivers in Ireland, the total mileage being 896. Previous to the war the control was divided as follows:—State, 166 miles; local authorities or trust, 218 miles; independent companies, 295 miles; railways, 96 miles; and under no direct control, 121 miles. The canal system in Ireland was, on the average, superior to that found in England, where they found that each company made its canal with regard only to local interests. The locks on the Irish canals were larger than those on the English canals, which admitted of larger boats and heavier cargoes being carried. Other advantages the Irish canals had were, that subsidences by underground workings were unknown here, the stoppage of traffic by ice was less frequent, and the shortage of water in the summer months was not so general as in England. In considering the utilisation of the Irish canals in the future the dearth of industries in the Midlands and West of Ireland was a factor to be reckoned with. Agricultural produce was an important traffic, but it was not sufficient to keep a canal working. To secure a larger volume of traffic canal companies should act as carriers on their own canals, and it was also necessary that the terminus of the waterway should be a port. Canal freights being in most cases governed by railway rates, the losses in working the canals at present could be minimised if the Government adopted the suggestion of Sir Hugh Bell—that the railways got a free hand to raise rates, sufficient to cover their large deficits, and, he added, a moderate dividend; subject, in all cases, to a modified form of Government control. Canals would then be in a position to increase their revenue and wipe out some of their losses in working, and would not be a serious burden on the State. In conclusion, Mr. Phillips said that he was convinced that the time would come when Ireland would be so industriously prosperous that full advantage could be derived from its canal system. Should the canals be abandoned before that took place there was little doubt but that the country would regret that it had not an additional means of transit. If the waterways of Ireland were to be utilised in the future they must either be taken over by the State or assisted by a State indemnity or subsidy. The only alternative was that losses in working should be borne by the counties through which each navigation passed. The principle of State ownership of waterways had long ago been admitted in the case of the Shannon, the Maigue, and the Caledonian Canal. Contributions from local authorities were made in the case of the Bann, Lough Erne, and Lough Corrib navigations.

Mr. J. T. Jackson, Hon. Sec., read a paper by Mr. J. O. Moynan on "Road Transport in Ireland." In his paper, Mr. Moynan stated that efficient road transport in this country was an outstanding necessity. The roads must be utilised to the fullest extent, and to fit them for that work they must be improved, straightened, strengthened, and widened, and, where necessary, relaid out to connect outlying districts with the trunk railways. Suitable services must be arranged for and maintained continuously, and even if at first it necessitated some increase of county rates that would be a mere trifle compared with the benefits of increased transport facilities. He favoured the establishment of central dépôts, with large numbers of cars and waggons, working under a County Council Committee for each county.

IRISH EVANGELISATION SOCIETY.

ANNUAL MEETING IN BELFAST.

DR. F. B. MEYER AND THE IRISH PROBLEM.

The annual meeting of the Irish Evangelisation Society was held yesterday in the Y.M.C.A. Buildings, Belfast. After tea, Mr. S. G. Montgomery (Bangor) presided. Rev. Dr. Henry Montgomery asked for earnest united prayer on behalf of the Portstewart Convention and other associated Christian enterprises.

Mr. H. Stephens Richardson, honorary secretary, read the annual report, which recorded that important changes had taken place in the development of the work, and stated that by the formation of a strong Northern Committee the centre of control was transferred from Dublin to Belfast.

Mr. Robert Clyde, hon. treasurer, in submitting the financial statement, said that it was necessary this year to issue two balance sheets, one from the Dublin office, which showed an overdraft of £172 4s. 7d., and one from the Northern Committee, showing a balance on hands of £54 15s. 7d. These accounts having been merged, the debit balance against the Society amounted to £117 9s. The Committee took that opportunity of thanking most heartily all those who had so kindly helped by subscriptions and donations, and made a most earnest appeal to those who could do so to increase the amount of their contributions and to try and assist in every way. Others could assist with the work of preaching the Gospel in all the outlying districts and in the towns and villages of their island home. They estimated that their expenses for 1920 would be very greatly increased, as it was hoped to have a much larger staff of Evangelists, who would be able to cover a wide area. In conclusion, Mr. Clyde said that £1,000 was no longer of any use to meet their annual outlay. They wanted £2,000 this year

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, said that the dominant note of the former was all of praise—praise to God for opening up a way for their Evangelists, and in many places for guiding them in their various missions and for blessing their labours with results. They had come there not only to praise, but also to dedicate themselves afresh to God. They knew that the plodding way pursued by their Churches was important and valuable in promoting the Kingdom of God on earth, but at the same time they wanted to co-operate with all the Churches and help them, and he thought that many would acknowledge that these services had done much to stimulate the energies of the Churches and broaden and deepen their spiritual life. They devoted themselves to that work because they believed that the Gospel was the real cure for Ireland's ills. (Applause.)

Captain A. C. Brown seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer, who then addressed the meeting, said that he was pleased to be there at the first inauguration of their Society. He was glad to be visiting Ireland at this time. In England they had been inclined to think much more of Ireland as a great political problem, which engaged the attention of legislators and politicians, and, as they reviewed the debates in the House of Commons from time to time, they were inclined to look upon that very knotty problem as one which resisted nearly every effort at a solution. But now that he had come for those few hours to be in their midst, he began to realise that it was not simply a political issue with them, but a patriotic emotion—(applause)—and that they, as Irish people, as people who loved their country, they were oppressed with the awful agony and sorrow of the time, and that they were not taken up with the thought of revenge of those who had desecrated the soil of Ireland, but with the intensest desire that Ireland should be redeemed and saved from all crime and wrong, and once more be the Emerald Isle of the sea, full of beauty, verdure, and life. (Applause.) It was because they were there as Christians that he advised cultivating the spirit of optimism. There were, he was sure, better days before their country.

Prayer was offered by Mr. H. Stephens Richardson, who pronounced the Benediction, and the proceedings terminated.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, APRIL 13, 1920.

The House of Commons in Committee yesterday approved a resolution authorising the granting of gratuities and the undertaking of insurance for the purpose of re-establishing overseas trade, to an amount not exceeding, at any time, £26,000,000, and the payment of any expenses incurred by the Board of Trade in connection therewith.

Mr. Bonar Law, in the House of Commons yesterday, denied the rumours that the Cabinet had been divided in regard to the Government's attitude to the French action in occupying a number of German towns. He deprecated discussion of the subject in the House pending the meeting of the heads of Allied Governments, at which he expressed the hope that a satisfactory understanding would be reached.

Dublin Municipal Council was summoned yesterday to discharge the business of its quarterly meeting, but it adjourned as a protest against the treatment of the prisoners, who are on hunger strike in Mountjoy Jail. The meeting also expressed approval of the decision of the Labour Party to "down tools" throughout the country to-day in furtherance of that protest.

Acting on behalf of the National Executive of the Irish Trades Union Congress and Labour Party, the Chairman and Acting Secretary have issued a call to the workers of Ireland to adopt a general stoppage of work throughout the country to-day, with the exception of those employed on newspapers, telegraph services, baking of bread, and essential food distribution and humanitarian services.

Punchestown Races, which were to have been held to-day and to-morrow, have been postponed till Wednesday and Thursday.

The Primate, Most Rev. Dr. Crozier, died on Sunday night at a quarter to eight at the Palace, Armagh, after an illness extending over several weeks.

At the inquest in Cork yesterday concerning the death of Mr. Thomas MacCurtain, the jury handed in a resolution expressing their desire to have Lord French and Sir John Taylor summoned for examination regarding a Press statement, of which the foreman said he had not seen an official contradiction. The statement in the Press was to the effect that the authorities in Dublin Castle had information as to who the murderers of the late Lord Mayor of Cork were. The inquest was adjourned until Saturday, the Coroner intimating that he would issue summonses for the attendance of Lord French and Sir John Taylor.

In London yesterday the Stock Markets opened well, but finally declined, and speculative things were all weak. War Loans improved, and held their rise to the close. Money was in ample supply at 3½ per cent., and down to 3 per cent. Discounts were in active demand, especially short paper. In Dublin Home Rails and Dunlops were lower. The market for Guinness and Imperial Tobaccos was stronger.

A Plea for Sanity.

Ireland has reached a plight which demands the immediate intervention of every element of sanity that the country contains. The situation in Mountjoy Prison enforces that need in the most urgent fashion. A number of men have been on "hunger-strike" for more than a week as a protest against the conditions of their imprisonment, and some of them are reported to be in a dying state. If even one of them dies, there will be a grave aggravation of lawlessness and disorder. Nobody who recalls the results of Thomas Ashe's death can pretend to have any illusions on that point. Acts of "retaliation" will be committed throughout the country. Sedition will receive a lamentable impetus, and the difficulties and dangers of police duty will be multiplied. This change for the worse, if it comes, will come at the moment when new men, and, perhaps, new methods, are being introduced into the Irish Administration. Sir Hamar Greenwood and Sir Nevil Macready will be charged with even more formidable burdens than they had anticipated. We feel that, if such calamity can be averted at any cost less than that of a serious weakening of the Executive's authority, it ought to be averted. Is all the concession to be expected, however, from the side of law, and is no concession to be made by the forces that resist the law? That, surely, is a question which reasonable Irishmen of all parties are bound to answer. If it were a mere matter of the relaxation of prison rules, and no larger issues were involved, we cannot think that the Executive would be justified in standing on its dignity at the expense of the men who are about to take charge of the conflict with disaffection. The Government knows by experience, however, that every concession has been accepted hitherto as a proof of its discomfiture. In the eyes of Sinn Feiners it is always either a tyrant or a fool: never yet have they given it credit for a humane or decent motive. Its task is made immensely more troublesome by the fact that the revolutionary movement is being conducted without any of the amenities of civilised warfare.

We hope sincerely that these young men in Mountjoy Prison will not allow themselves to die. If the public opinion which they represent would give the Executive some assurance that clemency to them would improve the state of Ireland, we think that such clemency could not be delayed. This crisis is the outcome of a wholly unnatural situation, produced by reckless fanaticism on the one hand, and by the consequent need of repression on the other. The Government's first duty is the maintenance of law and order. If it fails in that duty, it stands self-condemned; and with every new day more vigorous methods are being forced upon it by the growth of anarchy. The employment of the word "anarchy" to describe the state of at least one-half of Ireland is not extravagant. In the South life and property are wholly insecure. In Clare and other districts the jurisdiction of the Sinn Fein courts has ousted the jurisdiction of the King, and County Court judges are left without business. In the West Bolshevism, that sinister camp-follower of Sinn Fein, has swept down upon the land, and farmers are being expelled from their holdings at the point of the revolver. The Government's task is as difficult as its duty is clear. It is fighting sedition single-handed, for it gets no support from public opinion. The only public opinion which exists as an active force to-day is that which stimulates reckless youth to lawless deeds and then covers the track of their offences. In these circumstances a Government which would make no mistakes must have the genius of a Napoleon and the detective instincts of a Sherlock Holmes. The Irish Executive is compelled by the very nature of its problem to strike sometimes in the dark, to throw its net far and wide, and to arrest on suspicion men whom, for lack of evidence, it cannot bring to trial. Such arrests inflame popular anger and provoke retaliation. So the vicious circle rolls on, an Ixion's wheel on which our wretched country is being carried to its doom.

We print to-day a letter which enforces our repeated appeals to the national intelligence. It expounds the relationship between "British" government and "Irish" freedom in clear and cogent terms. If its truths had been appreciated during the last few years, Mountjoy Prison would not be crowded to-day with young Irishmen, and dozens of other Irishmen—gallant servants of the Crown—would not have fallen to the assassin's bullet. Whatever the political constitution of Irish government may be, the civil power, which is the effective government, is, and will remain, in Irish hands. Its moral principles are enforced by Irishmen, whether they be priests, judges, or jurors. If this national organisation for the maintenance of public law fails, the nation must perish, and the influences which ignore or neglect this general duty will perish with the nation. The process of dissolution is far advanced at this moment. Nothing can check it save an immediate recognition by all classes of the Irish people of the fact that, in making war on the sanctions of civilised society, they are making war on themselves. Compared with this vital truth, forms of government—Union or Dominion Home Rule or Republic—are meaningless counters in the game of politics. If the Irish Executive is groping to-day in a material fog for lack of that public support which is the wireless telegraphy of efficient administration, the men who are harrying Ireland for the sake of a political ideal are fighting in a moral fog. We think that the rapid spread of anarchy had begun, within recent weeks, to bring this truth home to the public mind. It will be a real misfortune if, at this critical moment, another "Irish tragedy" adds fuel to the fires of political passion and gives the shriek of revenge an opportunity to silence the first whispers of reason.

Overseas Trade.

The House of Commons yesterday gave its assent to a scheme which, if administered wisely, should give British merchants a firm hold upon certain European markets where, in pre-war days, the German monopoly was virtually complete. The Board of Trade was authorised to grant credits and to undertake insurances up to an amount that should not exceed 26 million pounds. Primarily, of course, the object is to save Europe from economic ruin. Every section of the House approved the principle of the scheme, but there was a brisk discussion about details. Sir Donald Maclean admitted that there was a "great deal to be said for it," but thought that a sum of 16 millions would be sufficient. No sound reason for a reduction, however, was advanced, and Sir Donald's amendment was rejected. Lord Robert Cecil made a powerful speech in support of the Government's proposal, and drew attention to one of the most disheartening features of Europe's plight. Several of the young States that have been created since hostilities ceased have made no effort to help themselves. No application for British credit should be granted unless it is clear that the State concerned is willing to make an honest endeavour to set its house in order and to trade amicably with its neighbours. Peoples who will not help themselves do not deserve assistance. The administration of the scheme will be entrusted to the Department of Overseas Trade—a new department which promises to serve a most useful purpose. Some details of what it has accomplished in the interests of British manufacturers and merchants are now available. It has organised an extensive overseas intelligence system, which comprises the commercial, diplomatic, and Consular services in foreign countries and trade commissioners and Imperial trade correspondents in the Empire. In future it will receive and distribute reports of a widely varied nature at regular intervals. Sources of supply, prices of foreign trade products, openings for British trade, conditions prevailing in foreign markets, contracts open to tender, particulars about shipping and transport are a few of the subjects upon which any person who cares to apply can receive the latest reports. Moreover, samples of competitive goods will be available for inspection. The trade commissioners and Imperial trade correspondents should play an important part in the development of inter-Empire commerce. Their work will tend to promote that community of interests which is needed to combat not only foreign competition in goods, but the establishment of foreign influences in the development of the Empire's resources. Our neglect in this matter in the past cost us a heavy price.

The Church's Loss.

The death of the Most Reverend J. B. Crozier, D.D., Primate of All Ireland and Archbishop of Armagh, has robbed the country of an able prelate and a worthy son. Dr. Crozier was a distinguished Churchman, and the Irish Church, at one of the most critical periods in her history, can ill afford his loss. All his talents were devoted to her service, and she rewarded his fidelity by the proudest gift which was in her power to bestow. As head of the Church of Ireland, the late Primate's influence was used, first in the promotion of Church interests, but also in the furtherance of Ireland's happiness. He was not a politician, but, nevertheless, he played an important part in the ill-fated Irish Convention, and did his best to bring about that reconciliation between the conflicting groups of Irishmen for which every son of Ireland yearned. As a bishop, he was a capable administrator and a wise and sympathetic counsellor. As an Irishman, he was a loyal lover of his country and his people. As a Christian gentleman, he was courteous, tolerant, and kind. The gap which Dr. Crozier's death has broken in the ranks of the Irish Church will be hard to fill. Dark days lie ahead, and the peril of partition threatens the very existence of the Church. None but a strong hand can guide her in safety through the dangerous crisis which events have precipitated. A clear, cool head must direct her counsels and consolidate her forces in the hour of need. Will such a leader be found? Archbishop Crozier's intellectual attainments were leavened with humour, and his strong personality was tempered by justice and a rigid adherence to the principles for which he stood. Ireland to-day has need of men like her Primate who is dead. The country, as well as the Church, mourns in him a well-tried guardian of its destinies.

The First Swallow.

The first swallow has arrived. On Sunday he was observed in County Carlow, and yesterday two of his companions, in the company of a pair of sand-martens, were on the hunt for light refreshment in County Kildare. No further proof, therefore, should be necessary. Spring has begun. Man, however, is a dubious creature. Sages tell him that one swallow does not make a summer. Is there any reason, he argues, why even three swallows, plus two sand-martens, should make a spring? Certainly, his scepticism is encouraged by other signs and portents. A deluge of rain has been swamping every vernal activity, from the noisy conceits of the St. Stephen's Green duck-pond to the wordy fervour of the minor poet. In the circumstances the swallow's return leaves us cold—and wet. He would have been far wiser to linger on the shores of the Mediterranean or whatever part of the world he uses as his Riviera. His arrival has synchronised with that of a particularly obnoxious spell of bad weather which, if our official forecast is to be believed, shows every sign of continuance. "In the South," we are told, "showery weather is probable." In the North "mainly dull weather, and rain at times, are anticipated." Generally, "conditions will be unsettled for the next day or two." What can the swallow say to this melancholy prophecy? Perhaps, indeed, he came back in order to be in time for Punchestown. In that event he has had a nasty shock.

CAMPAIGN CONTINUED.

Leixlip Police Barrack (which was empty, save for the police sergeant, who was on sick leave, and his wife and three children) was burned on Friday night last, at 12.30. Sixteen masked men, with blackened faces, took part. They cut the wires to Dublin. Two men were posted on the bridge over the river, and two on the other end of the village. The raiders turned the sergeant, who was ill, and his family out into the street, and set fire to the barrack, which was burned out, only the walls remaining standing. The raiders did not leave for nearly an hour, and during that time two shots were fired.

Conaslee (Queen's Co.) Police Barrack, recently evacuated, was destroyed on Saturday night or Sunday morning, with its contents, including the furniture and household effects of Sergeant Hogg, who is now stationed at Mountmellick.

Broughderg R.I.C. Barrack, situate on a lonely mountain ten miles north of Cookstown, Co. Tyrone, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night. The barrack has been closed for some time.

Brockagh (Co. Donegal) Police Barrack, which had been vacated, was burned to the ground last night.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

A good many members of Parliament are evidently extending their Easter holidays, for there was a decidedly short attendance when the House of Commons resumed operations this afternoon. As for the Treasury Bench, usually so congested, so many Ministers are away, or awaiting re-election, that there was plenty of room for all the Under-Secretaries whom duty called there. Sir Robert Horne was loudly cheered on making his first appearance as President of the Board of Trade, and Sir Montagu Barlow, the new Under-Secretary for Labour, also received a hearty welcome on his promotion. The writ for Sunderland was moved by Captain Guest.

Mr. Bonar Law was, perhaps, a little unduly optimistic in regard to the amount of business which he expected the House to get through to-night. Perhaps, he thought that after a week's recess members would be full of energy and anxious to show what they really could do to lighten the overburdened programme of Government business. So he suggested as a start that, before the rising of the House, they might well dispose of at least seven orders on the paper, including such topics as Overseas Trade, Tramways, Scottish House Letting, Savings Banks, the Imperial War Museum, and the Army Annual Bill. A start was made with the overseas trade measure, which, in short, is a proposal to authorise Government credits not exceeding 26 millions at any one time for the re-establishment of overseas trade. Members exhibited a thirst for knowledge as to the exact intentions of the Government, and Mr. Bridgman did his best to satisfy it, though without much apparent success.

To be on the safe side Sir Donald Maclean moved to reduce the vote by ten millions, but this was opposed by Lord Robert Cecil, who declared that it was impossible to exaggerate the economic danger in Europe at the present moment. At present, it seemed to him, the new European States were cutting their own throats as hard as they could. The Government had the rare privilege of securing the support of Colonel Wedgwood, but, as against this, they had the uncompromising hostility of Sir Frederick Banbury, who seemed to think that the taxpayers' money was being squandered on purely philanthropic objects, and that some of the distressful countries concerned really deserved to suffer. In the end Sir Donald Maclean's amendment was negatived without a division, and the Government's proposals were accepted.

On the motion for the adjournment Commander Kenworthy raised the question of the hunger-strikers in Mountjoy Prison. The Attorney-General for Ireland read a telegram which he had received from the Prisons Board to the effect that the condition of the men was serious, and that some were in what he described as the danger zone. He added that the total number on hunger-strike was eighty-nine, and that the hunger-strike which had been in progress at Wormwood Scrubbs had been abandoned. Mr. Jeremiah MacVeagh declared that, if one of these men died, the Government were laying up for themselves trouble of which no one could see the end.

A Committee of Southern Unionists, representing all interests, are drafting amendments at the House of Commons, or in its vicinity, to the Home Rule Bill, and the fruits of their efforts will soon be seen on the notice paper. Meanwhile, it seems unlikely that the Committee stage can be entered upon before the end of the present, or early in the next month, because the new Chief Secretary (Sir Hamar Greenwood) who is to take charge of the measure, will be kept away until then by his need for seeking re-election at Sunderland. I hear that several English Unionists have made up their minds to vote for any amendment which places the nine Ulster counties (instead of six, as proposed in the Bill), under the Parliament of Northern Ireland, their view being that it will be more helpful to the promotion of union. Complete satisfaction is expressed by representatives of the Coalition at the victory achieved by the two Government candidates at Stockport. It is regarded as a most encouraging vindication of the policy of co-operation on the part, not only of Liberals and Unionists, but of all the friends of ordered progress. Favourable news is also to hand in regard to other by-elections, whose results have yet to be decided or declared.

It is reported by skilled and competent observers that Dr. Macnamara is safe in North-West Camberwell, and that the Coalition candidates in both South and North Edinburgh have also been elected. There was some doubt whether the seat for North Edinburgh might not be gained by Mr. Runciman for the Independent Liberals, but it is now confidently believed that he has been unsuccessful.

Sir Hamar Greenwood's prospects of re-election in Sunderland seem to be excellent, and so are those of Colonel Halbrook in the Basingstoke Division; but, of course, there is a caution against over-confidence. The by-election to which the Coalition experts seem to look with a touch of uncertainty is that in which Mr. McCurdy is again standing as Food Controller. That gentleman himself, however, feels sure of getting in again.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer is understood to have received the approval of the Cabinet for his Budget schemes, and he will reveal them to the House of Commons on Monday next. A suggestion is made that, in all probability, he will do nothing about accepting the recommendation of the Income Tax Commission regarding the profits of the co-operative societies. This would be a serious mistake, for at present these societies bring a great deal of money to the Socialists for propaganda purposes. This money might as well go to the State for the benefit of the community at large. The alliance between Labour of the extreme type and the co-operative movement is close enough to survive the loss of cash.

The world shortage of paper is creating a number of grave problems in many countries. In New York to-day the proprietors of the evening newspapers are introducing several measures that will bring home to the people the need for paper economy. Instead of twenty pages, the "evenings" will be reduced to eight, and all display advertising is eliminated. This will make a tremendous change in the appearance of the papers, and give a shock to the regular reader. It is quite likely that similar steps will have to be taken on this side before very long. The shortage grows more acute, and, the more the circulation of a newspaper increases, the greater the financial loss to its owners. In the publication world the output of books is greatly retarded by the shortage, since the publisher is unable to make up his mind what a book will cost him several weeks ahead, and he consequently fears to make contracts with his authors.

DEATH OF THE PRIMATE.

EMINENT CHURCHMAN'S CARRER.

We announce with much regret the death of Most Rev. Dr. Crozier, Primate of All Ireland, which occurred on Sunday night at his residence, The Palace, Armagh. A paralytic seizure compelled him to abandon the active duties of his high office several weeks ago, and since then he was confined to his room in The Palace.

The news of the death of the Most Rev. John Baptist Crozier, Primate of All Ireland, will be read with deep regret not only by the members of the Church of Ireland, but by a large circle of other friends, for Dr. Crozier was widely known and extremely popular. He was born in 1853. His father was Rector of Ballyhaise, Co. Cavan. The future Primate was educated at Trinity College, Dublin. His career was a successful one, as he took honours and prizes in Logics, Ethics, Hebrew, and Irish. He was Moderator and Medallist in the first two subjects. He took the Downes Divinity Prize, and also a first class Divinity Testimonium. He graduated in 1872, and four years later became Curate of St. Stephen's, Belfast. From 1877 to 1880 he was Curate of St. Anne's, Belfast, being appointed Vicar of Holywood, Co. Down, in 1880, which Vicarage he held for 17 years. In 1897 he was made Bishop of Ossory, Ferns, and Leighlin, and in 1907 was transferred to the Bishopric of Down and Connor and Dromore. He has filled the office of Primate since 1911. When a student at the Dublin University his ability was proved, not only by the exceptionally large number of subjects in which he secured prizes, but by the fact that he was elected Auditor of the College Theological Society and also President of the Philosophical. In the College Historical he also greatly distinguished himself, and was one of the officers of the Society. Amongst his friends and contemporaries who also rose to high places mention may be made of Sir John Ross and the Right Hon. Richard Cherry, sometime Lord Chief Justice of Ireland. As a debater in the College Societies, perhaps his ablest competitor was the late Mr. Arthur Patton, who would undoubtedly have reached to a high position had not death cut off his career at an early stage. In addition to these successes in intellectual pursuits the Primate was well known as an athlete, and was one of the earliest members of the Wanderers Football Club, taking all his life a great interest in outdoor games. He was Vice-President of the Holywood Cricket Club and Rugby Football Club.

When called upon to succeed Dr. Alexander as Primate, the Irish Church conferred on him the highest gift that she could bestow. The task was no easy one, for Dr. Alexander's fame, both as a poet and a preacher, was far-reaching. Dr. Crozier did not possess poetical gifts, but he greatly appreciated telling verses, and often used them in the pulpit. He was not an orator in the sense that Dr. Alexander was, but he was a fluent and very forcible speaker, who always attracted and maintained the interest of his hearers. He had a fine presence, and a singularly clear voice and method of delivery. In the management of the financial affairs of his diocese he was eminently successful. When Bishop of Down he set himself, heart and soul to supply Belfast with more churches and additional clergy, and by his efforts much has been accomplished in that direction. The Primate all through life went thoroughly into anything that he undertook. Other bishops may have been more learned, but as a practical man, who was master of business methods, he has had few equals. As almost the entire of his ministerial life was spent in Ulster he was naturally best known in that Province, but his influence was widely felt throughout the whole country. The late Archbishop was select preacher at Cambridge in 1902, and at Trinity College in 1898 and 1906. He often preached at Westminster Abbey, where his discourses were always greatly appreciated. He was chaplain to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland since 1893, and was a Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral in 1896. As Honorary Secretary of the General Synod of the Church of Ireland he worked strenuously, and his advice was at all times highly valued. Dr. Crozier was a Fellow of the Royal Society of Antiquaries, and, though his own time was too fully occupied to engage in original research, he took much interest in listening to the papers read by other members, and when in Kilkenny he always entertained the members of the Society when parties of them visited that historic city.

The services which Dr. Crozier rendered during the war will not lightly be forgotten. He used all his great influence to bring before the members of his own communion the duty of proving the faith that was in them by fighting for justice and liberty, and no doubt his words largely helped to stir up the recruiting spirit. His eldest son, now Lieutenant-Colonel Crozier, greatly distinguished himself, gaining the D.S.O. and French Legion of Honour. Dr. Crozier did not take much part in politics, though in his addresses to his clergy he made his adherence to the Union a matter of prominence. He never encouraged religious controversy, nor engaged in it. He was an Irishman who dearly loved his country, and strove in every way in his power to benefit those to whom he came in contact. There were few men in Ireland more popular or more highly respected by all classes and his loss will be deeply deplored.

AN APPRECIATION.

The Primate entered Trinity College when he was very young, and had quite a successful College career. He was exceedingly popular as a graduate, was well known in the football field, and was a conspicuous member of the College Societies, more particularly the Philosophical and Theological Societies, while in the Divinity School he took an active part, and also in the work of the Fishamble Street Mission, Dublin, which always had a place in his affections. He began his ministerial life in Belfast, where he was curate of St. Stephen's Church in 1876, and after serving there for four years he became vicar of the important parish of Holywood, where he remained from 1880 until 1897. During those years he did much work not only among his parishioners, but also among the Orangemen of the district, for whose welfare he worked in many directions. He became examining chaplain to Bishop Knox in 1885, and in this position he was brought into close connection with all sorts and conditions of men for a period of about twelve years. He was well known as an effective platform speaker and as a moving preacher. Indeed, his activity in preaching and speaking during the last thirty years of his life was prodigious. In 1897 he became Bishop of Ossory, and at once made his mark as an admirable administrator and chief pastor. During his period of ten years as Bishop of Ossory he learned much, and did much to promote the welfare of the Church as a whole, and it was with great satisfaction that his friends learned of his appointment, in 1907, to the important See of Down. He was well known throughout the whole of that great diocese, and he set himself at once to co-ordinate his activities and bring the clergy into closer relations with each other. He also raised the standard of diocesan life. It is not too much to say that during the four years he was Bishop of Down he created a new standard of episcopal activity for that diocese, and in 1911, when the Primacy became vacant, it was at once acknowledged that he was the proper person to fill the Chair of St. Patrick. As Primate a large part of his duty consisted in presiding at Synods and conferences, and he was, probably, the best chairman of a popular assembly in Ireland at the time of his death. He was courteous, even-tempered and ready, and was able to interpret the will of any assembly swiftly and precisely. To see him at his best one had only to attend the General Synod in Dublin, where for nine years he presided with dignity and power. He was a man of many friends, and he endeared himself to them all by his genuine sympathy, through which he shared in their joys and sorrows alike. He never missed visiting a sick friend or writing a letter to an absent one. He remembered the names of all with whom he came in contact in his episcopal visitations, men, women, and children, and his popularity increased in Ireland as the years passed.

The Primate was one of the most active members of the Irish Convention, which was formed for the purpose of endeavouring to formulate a scheme of self-government that would be acceptable to the whole of the people of the country. He attended nearly all the sessions of the Convention, and took a keen interest in the trend of opinion as disclosed by the debates on the various points raised with reference to suggested schemes of settlement. A report signed by him and the late Sir John Mahaffy is embodied in the official report of the proceedings of the Convention. The report states—"We have not found it possible to vote for the conclusion reached by the majority of the members of this Convention. It involves, in our opinion, either of two alternatives—(1) the coercion of Ulster, which is unthinkable; and (2) the partition of Ireland, which would be disastrous. We have more than once put forward a federal scheme based on the Swiss or Canadian precedent, which might ensure a united Ireland, with provincial autonomy for Ulster or any other province that desired it. This scheme would also be capable of being adapted to some larger scheme of Imperial Federation for the whole British Empire."

THE PRIMATE'S LAST SERVICE.

Widespread regret is expressed throughout Dungannon district at the death of the Primate, and the bells of the local parish churches were solemnly tolled. It was in Dungannon Parish Church on the 17th February that His Grace performed his last public service, when he dedicated the Colours of the 6th Battalion Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

In connection with the funeral, which will take place at Armagh on Thursday, the Great Northern Railway Company announce that a special train will be run from Portadown to Armagh at 11.20 a.m. on arrival of the 9 a.m. train from Dublin and 10 a.m. train from Belfast. The special train is due to arrive in Armagh at 11.35 a.m.

MESSAGE FROM THE VICEROY.

The following telegram was sent yesterday by the Lord Lieutenant to Mrs. Crozier, The Palace, Armagh:—

In the name of all Ireland I ask you to accept our deepest sympathy with you and your family. Amongst all the great and distinguished Prelates who have held the high office of Primate of All Ireland, John Crozier has never been surpassed in the love and affection which he called forth from Churchmen and laymen alike in response to the help and sympathy which he extended to all with whom he came in contact. Ireland mourns to-day the loss of a great spiritual teacher and true friend.

(Signed) FRENCH.

TELEGRAM FROM THE LORD MAYOR OF BELFAST.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast (Councillor W. F. Coates, J.P.) sent the following telegram to Mrs. Crozier, The Palace, Armagh:—"On behalf of the citizens of Belfast, I tender to you and your family deep sympathy in your great sorrow and bereavement. The Empire has lost one who leaves behind a noble tradition of high-minded patriotism, the Church a great and gifted dignitary for whom affection and respect were widely entertained, and the entire community has been bereaved of a true friend, whose memory will long be cherished. We mourn with you to-day: your sorrow is indeed, our sorrow.—W. F. Coates (Lord Mayor)."

METHODIST TRIBUTE

The final meeting in connection with the Methodist missionary movement was held in the Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, last night, Mr. W. Mills Forsyth, J.P., in the chair. The meeting was preceded by a short organ recital by Mr. J. Turner Huggard, A.R.C.O. After an introductory hymn and prayer, the Rev. W. R. Budd said that before hearing the Chairman's address he wished to say that news had been received that day of the death of the Rev. Dr. Crozier, Primate of All Ireland. He felt that the meeting would wish to express its sense of loss at the passing of this great Churchman. The late Archbishop was a hard worker, an able administrator, and exerted a great influence for good. Honest, outspoken, and good-humoured, he gained the respect of those who differed from him in matters of opinion. The speaker had enjoyed the friendship of the late Primate, who was always friendly disposed towards ministers of other denominations.

The following resolution was then submitted:—"This meeting of Dublin Methodists has heard with deep sorrow of the death of the Rev. Dr. Crozier, Primate of All Ireland, and desires to express its sympathy with a family so deeply bereaved and its sense of the loss which the country has sustained."

The resolution was passed in silence.

At Armagh Asylum Board yesterday the following resolution was passed on the motion of the Chairman (Mr. H. B. Armstrong, D.L.), seconded by Mr. John Compton, D.L.:—

That the Committee, at their meeting this morning, having heard with profound regret of the demise of the Lord Primate, hereby desire to express their sense of the loss the community has suffered by the death of one who ever showed a ready and hearty desire to join actively in any movement for the benefit of all his neighbours, and endeared himself to all by his geniality and kindness of heart.

ARMAGH PROTESTANT CATHEDRAL.

OUTRAGE DENOUNCED BY CARDINAL LOGUE.

Referring to the painting of the Sinn Fein colours recently on a pillar at the entrance leading into the Protestant Cathedral, Armagh, His Eminence Cardinal Logue has addressed the following letter to Rev. John Ward, the Administrator of the Parish of Armagh:—

Armagh, 10th April, 1920.

MY DEAR FATHER WARD,—I was pained and shocked to learn from a paragraph in last Thursday's paper that the Protestant Cathedral here in Armagh had been subjected to a flagrant outrage. I feel that I can speak not only for myself, but for the decent Catholics of the city, when I say that we detest, denounce, and reprobate this disreputable conduct. Throughout the country at present much valuable property, for which innocent people shall have to pay, is being wantonly destroyed; but one would expect that at least religious edifices would be kept immune from injury or insult. But in times of trouble and excitement desperate, reckless characters, to whom nothing is sacred, come to the surface; it is the harvest day of the evil-disposed. Unfortunately, we have evidence enough of this at present. We have misery enough without the added curse of sectarian strife.

Since I came here, now thirty-three years ago, I have endeavoured by precept and example to encourage and maintain peace, charity, goodwill, and neighbourly feeling, such as should exist in a Christian community among the people of every denomination and every political party. I should be very sorry, indeed, should anything arise to mar this desirable state of things. Hence I hope we have heard the last of any such disreputable acts, which cannot fail to bring disgrace upon the city, and which, in common with all our respectable Catholics, I heartily deprecate and condemn.—I am, dear Father Ward, yours faithfully,

✠ MICHAEL CARDINAL LOGUE.

BELFAST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

EVILS OF NATIONALISATION.

The Marquis of Londonderry was yesterday installed as President of the Belfast Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year at the annual meeting of the Chamber held in the Ulster Minor Hall. At the beginning of the proceedings the retiring President, Mr. H. L. Garrett occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance.

Mr. Garrett, in moving the adoption of the annual report of the Council, said that he only proposed to mention one topic referred to in the report of the Council—namely, the Home Rule Bill. Under the bill, we are given, he said, the opportunity of working out our own salvation for ourselves in our own way. I will not at this moment attempt to go into details of any sort, but I will take upon myself to assure you that we shall deal with the bill in every respect from a business point of view, which means getting the very utmost we can screw out of the British Government and giving the minimum. (Hear, hear.)

Dealing with nationalisation, Mr. Garrett said:—I referred a short time ago to the condition of Russia as the apotheosis of Socialism, but it is possible to examine the industrial results of Socialistic Government on extreme lines in one of our own Colonies—Australia. There Labour has attempted to create an industrial Utopia through successive Government experiments in nationalisation of various industries, with a very definite effect on Australia's financial status. The railways are nationalised, and are consequently run at a heavy annual loss. Shipbuilding has been nationalised, with the result that the cost of an Australian-built ship is simply ridiculous, compared with those built either here or anywhere else. New South Wales nationalised fish trawling with the immediate result that, as soon as the personal inducement to trawl successfully was removed, nobody did trawl successfully. Nationalised mines, sawmills, brickworks, and other industries similarly treated, all tell the same tale—namely, that what is everybody's business is nobody's, and that only hard work, economy, and individual effort can bring about industrial prosperity. And Australia, with her white population of some 5,000,000 inhabitants, has to carry a national debt of £750,000,000, for the simple reason that losses in all these unfortunate experiments has had to be made up by borrowing year after year.

Mr. W. M'Mullan seconded the adoption of the report, which was agreed to.

The Marquis of Londonderry, having taken the chair, thanked the members of the Chamber for the great honour they had conferred upon him.

The President announced the following unanimous elections:—Vice-President, Mr. W. H. Webb; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. David M'Kee; Hon. Auditor, Mr. Robt. Wallace; Members of Council, Messrs. Alexander Cooke, H. J. Johns, Thos. S. Wilson, R. J. M'Keown, and Harry Ferguson.

EARL OF MIDLETON IN COUNTY CORK.

Our Midleton Correspondent states:—The Earl of Midleton is at present on a visit to Midleton, and is the guest of Mr. James Penrose Fitzgerald, J.P. (his lordship's agent), at The Grange, Midleton. This is his lordship's first visit to his East Cork estate since his advancement in the peerage, and he has received warm congratulations from his Midleton friends. During his stay at Midleton he will call on Lord Barrymore at Fota, seven miles from Midleton.

Lord Kilmarnock presented a strong Note to the German Government on Sunday (says a Berlin telegram), demanding an apology and indemnity for the recent arrest and maltreatment of the British journalist, Mr. Voigt, in Essen, by Lieutenant Linsenmayer, of the Reichswehr.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

WIPING IT UP.

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says: Under pressure of public opinion which they feel to be irresistible, the Government are doing the only sensible thing that was left for them to do. They are trying to unmake the mischief which they made last week. That is impossible but, happily for mankind, there is reason to hope that, aided by the forbearance and the good sense of France, they have averted the worst and the most immediate of the evils they so wantonly provoked. They have adopted the first part of Uncle Toby's classic advice, and attempted to "wipe it up" as decently as they can. Mr. Bonar Law's answer to Sir Donald Maclean shows the earnestness of their endeavour, and he foretells its success with an assurance which could hardly have been exceeded had M. Millerand himself suggested the general character of the reply. The exchange of Notes, he says, "justifies the belief that both Governments recognise more than ever the necessity for maintaining intimate and cordial agreement for the settlement of the great questions in front of them in Germany." That is not all. Mr. Law is confident that the San Remo Conference between the heads of the Allied Governments "will, no doubt, serve to cement and consolidate the complete understanding" between them. We are delighted to see that our exhortations have not been in vain, though Mr. Law does not seem to be properly grateful for them. However, so long as he and his colleagues take their correction we do not care whether they kiss the rod or not. The great point is that they now recognise the necessity for that "intimate and cordial agreement" with France which they did not seem particularly anxious to preserve on Wednesday last, and which, as they must perceive, upon reflection, their Note of that day was not exactly calculated to foster. There was not much "cement and consolidation" about that unfortunate production, and if they really desire, as we have no doubt they do, to maintain and strengthen the friendship with France which is the only foundation for a sound foreign policy, we strongly recommend them to refrain from such effusions for the future. Even the truest of friends does not like to be lectured in quite so harsh and dictatorial a tone. The Government, it is clear, adds The Times, would fain take the second part of Uncle Toby's counsel—they would dearly like not merely to "wipe it up," but also to "say nothing about it." That will hardly be vouchsafed them. The House of Commons yesterday displayed a good deal of wholesome curiosity, and not a little of the jealousy which distinguishes that august assembly. But Mr. Law—acting, no doubt, upon instructions—was reluctant to tell them anything. He deprecated, he protested, he complained, he wriggled, he denied; we are afraid he prevaricated; but he entrenched himself firmly behind the good old official parapet, and would not be dislodged. He had no doubt—not the least—that the best plan is to make a complete statement to the House, but then, that course might have such dire consequences. The French might take it "as having the appearance of criticising them." This tenderness for their susceptibilities, only five days after the despatch of Mr. Lloyd George's Note, is a really remarkable example of a sudden change of heart!

THE CRISIS OVER.

The Anglo-French crisis may be regarded as practically over, says The Times. Some details remain to be discussed between the two Governments, but the point on which Mr. Lloyd George took issue has, on the whole, been satisfactorily settled. The statement made in the House of Commons by Mr. Bonar Law in regard to the exchange of Notes between London and Paris is—unlike his statements on other points—substantially accurate. It is true that the Notes "justify the belief that both Governments recognise more than ever the necessity for maintaining intimate and cordial agreement for the settlement of the grave questions in front of them in Germany." The French reply to the second British Note, adds The Times, was handed on Sunday to Lord Derby in Paris, and was received in London early yesterday. It is regarded in both capitals as marking the formal conclusion of a dangerous episode. In it the French Government expresses its satisfaction at the assent of the British Government to the concluding statement in the first French reply, and proceeds to remove the misunderstanding, which was apparently due to confusion of ideas. It explains that, for reasons previously set forth, France was obliged to occupy the German towns, and that Belgium had associated herself with the occupation. As soon as the German troops should have evacuated the neutral zone the occupation would cease. As regards the future, the Note repeats that the French Government intends to act only in agreement with its Allies in all inter-Allied questions affecting the execution of the Treaty. Hence it may be concluded that the explanations exchanged between Paris and London have led the British and French Governments to recognise more than ever the necessity of maintaining their close and cordial agreement in settling problems that confront them in Germany and in the world.

THE COMING CHANGES IN EGYPT.

The Times, commenting editorially to-day upon a closing article which it publishes from Sir Valentine Chirol on the situation in Egypt, says:—Sir Valentine Chirol makes no attempt to anticipate the recommendations of the Milner Mission, but he dwells upon the imperative necessity for removing the substantial grievances of the Egyptians. Of these, by far the most real is the vague and indefinite principle of dualism in the Executive administration. While no one knows where the powers of the British advisers begin or end, in practice the manner in which their authority is now exercised produces the virtual effacement of the Egyptian Ministers. The latter have become ciphers to such an extent that they make no public effort to guide and influence their fellow-countrymen. The right solution is to confer upon them real responsibility, and this reform must be accompanied by a very large reduction in the number of Britons in the Egyptian service. The Egyptians themselves must be made to feel that there is no bar to any posts in the State, save lack of training and qualification.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Lord Robert Cecil, in a letter to The Times to-day, addressed from the League of Nations Union, says:—Permit me briefly to reply to the two questions asked by Lord Parmoor in his letter to The Times on Saturday last. There is no exclusion from the League of ex-enemy countries. They are not admitted as original members, but as soon as they can qualify under the terms of Article I. of the Covenant there is no reasonable doubt that they will become members of the League. As to revision of the terms of peace, that can only be accomplished in international law by the unanimous assent of all the parties to the Treaty. Can Lord Parmoor suggest any way in which that can be accomplished, except through the influence of such a body as the League of Nations? If the League succeeds in creating a real improvement in international relations, a real movement towards international co-operation, then it will be possible to utilise the machinery created by the Covenant for the revision of anything that is amiss in the Treaty of Versailles, or in any other existing international instrument. Surely, to decline to support the League because you disapprove of the Treaty is a very extreme case of cutting off your nose to spite your face!

LORD FISHER AND THE NAVY ESTIMATES.

Lord Fisher, in the course of a letter to The Times to-day, says:—Take the Navy Estimates—just one item—the mass of vessels we now maintain all over the world "to show the flag." Was there ever so ludicrous a waste of money? We damned it years ago, but it now pops up again. Sir, do you think these Navy Estimates would be what they are (a stupendous monument of waste) if I could send for each individual responsible for the figures and say to him: "Now prove to me in detail (£10,000 at a time), how each item ministers to the fighting efficiency of the Fleet, and its instant readiness for war? If you can't prove it I wipe it out." (I am not preaching what I have not practised). If the Navy Estimates were thus reduced 50 per cent., then for very shame's sake the Army Estimates and all the other damnable monstrosities would be reduced pro rata. What I am writing to you is going to be effective. We are not going on paying four guineas for a pair of shoes. The country will rise and sweep out these rich nincompoops and self-seeking opportunists who at present bear rule over us. Not one of them has the courage of a louse or the backbone of a slug.

DEATH OF LADY WOLSELEY.

Lady Wolseley, widow of Field-Marshal Lord Wolseley, died at Hampton Court Palace, on Saturday after a long illness.

FRANCO-BRITISH RELATIONS.

STATEMENT BY MR. BONAR LAW.

DIVISIONS IN THE CABINET DENIED.

HOPES OF A FULL UNDERSTANDING.

In reply to a number of private advice questions relating to the position of affairs between the British and French Governments,

Mr. Bonar Law, in the House of Commons yesterday, said—As the House is aware, a difference, which His Majesty's Government freely deplored, had arisen between the British and French Governments, but the exchange of Notes which has taken place between London and Paris justifies the belief that both Governments recognise more than ever the necessity of maintaining intimate and cordial agreement for the settlement of the grave questions confronting them in Germany and elsewhere. (Cheers.) The approaching Conference of the heads of the Allied Governments will, no doubt, serve to confirm and consolidate a complete understanding between the Governments. In these circumstances I venture to suggest that it would be very undesirable to have any discussion of the subject in this House—(cheers)—either in debate or by way of question and answer. It is hardly necessary to add that there is no truth whatever in the statements made in a certain section of the Press that there has been any difference of opinion in the British Cabinet; and my right hon. friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer, whose name has been specially mentioned in this connection, has requested me to take this opportunity of explicitly denying it on his behalf.

Lt.-Col. Walter Guinness asked whether the Government took any steps to prevent the development of the crisis, by addressing any protest to the German Government against their continued violations of the Peace Treaty.

Mr. Bonar Law—That is just doing what I hoped the House would not do. We cannot discuss any partial aspect of this question without discussing the whole.

Lt.-Commander Viscount Curzon asked whether Lord Derby was now attending the Conference of Ambassadors in Paris.

Mr. Bonar Law said that he would rather that that question was postponed for a couple of days.

Sir W. Mitchell-Thomson—Do the Government intend to publish the Notes exchanged?

Mr. Bonar Law—I cannot give an answer to that question. It must, of course, depend not only on what the British Government think right, but upon what is thought by the other Allies.

Col. Claude Lowther—Is it a fact that the German Army at present, including Reichswehr, Militia, or "Reds," consists of two million men?

Mr. Bonar Law—I do not believe that there is a shadow of foundation for any such suggestion.

Replying to Mr. Palmer, Mr. Bonar Law said that no steps were taken to give information to the Press until the Press had run loose on the other side. He quite appreciated the feeling which had been shown in this matter. There was a difference between statements appearing in the Press and discussion in that House.

THE REICHSWEHR.

Colonel Wedgwood asked whether there was any information as to the withdrawal of the Reichswehr, or the Baltic troops, from the Essen district.

Mr. Bonar Law—The information which has reached us is to the effect that the Reichswehr will be withdrawn very shortly. I have no information of their being withdrawn up till now.

Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy—Are we taking any steps to insist on the Germans withdrawing their troops from the neutral zone?

Mr. Bonar Law—It is quite obvious that you cannot discuss isolated parts of this subject without discussing the whole of it. If we were dealing only with the British people I should like nothing better than to have a full discussion, but it is because it is a matter which affects not only ourselves, but our Allies, that I think it is desirable to avoid discussion if we can. It is quite possible that developments may make discussion in this House advisable. If so, the Government will be quite ready to give an opportunity. The House must realise that there are two great things. One is—That any statement by any member of this House, still more by any member of the Government, which seems to justify our attitude, may have the appearance of criticising our Allies. On the other hand, any statement might have the effect of conveying to the German people the idea that there is not complete agreement among the Allies as regards the enforcement of the Treaty.

Replying further to Lord Robert Cecil, Mr. Bonar Law said that there had been no statement issued by the Government, in any shape or form, giving particulars as to the Note, but for two or three days the Press was flooded with accounts on this subject entirely from one side, and the Government thought it necessary to give an indication as to what their attitude was. That could not be avoided unless we were to allow only one side to be stated. He thought that it was deplorable, and it would not have been done by the Government if it could have been avoided. Mr. Bonar Law added that at the time when these statements were made the House of Commons was not sitting.

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED.

FRENCH REPLY BELIEVED TO BE CONCILIATORY.

A Reuter Paris telegram of yesterday says—Lord Derby, British Ambassador, handed at one o'clock this afternoon the reply of the British Government to the second French Note. It would appear as a result of the presentation of this third Note of the British Government that the incident may be considered as on the point of being settled.

Reuter's Agency understands that the French reply to the second British Note, which was handed by M. Millerand to Lord Derby on Sunday night, and received in London in the early hours of yesterday morning, is of a conciliatory character.

IN THE OCCUPATION ZONE.

A Reuter's telegram of Monday says—The Special Correspondent of the Havas Agency has arrived at Barmen, after having travelled through the British occupation zone. He states that British as well as French officers considered the intervention of the Reichswehr in the Ruhr district as untimely, and expressed the same point of view as the French Government regarding the German violations of the Treaty. He was informed by British officers of such infringements of the Treaty as the manufacture of a new type of bullet by Krupps, and also of the complicity of General Waters with General von Luettwitz.

The Correspondent states that complete calm prevailed in the whole district through which he passed. On his arrival at Barmen, the Correspondent interviewed Herr Brass, Independent Deputy, and a leading figure in the Workers' Committee. Herr Brass stated that by March 13th three volunteer corps had marched to the Ruhr district, in violation of the Treaty. The corps raised by Litschlag was at Osnabruck, that raised by Lutzow at Remscheid, and that by Schultz at Muelheim.

Documents seized by workers convinced them of the connivance of the Reichswehr with the originators of the coup d'état. The Lutzow corps was to have left the Ruhr district for Berlin, but the coup was advanced by forty-eight hours, and when Lutzow wanted to move his men the general strike had already been proclaimed. When they discovered these facts, added Herr Brass, the workers revolted as a protest.

A Berlin telegram, dated Sunday, states:—It is semi-officially stated that the withdrawal of all troops which are no longer needed in the Ruhr region has already begun.

A Belgian regiment, says a Brussels Sunday telegram, will leave Arlon to-day for Mayence, where it will be officially received by the French troops. It will then proceed to Frankfort.

GERMANY'S FINANCIAL POSITION—II.

THE BURDEN OF WAR DEBT.

THE PROPOSED LOAN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, APRIL 3RD.

Since the recovery of economic and financial health by the German State precludes any evasion of the responsibilities incurred during the war, it remains to be seen in what way the situation must be handled. It must be borne in mind that Germany's total war indebtedness amounts to about 200 milliards of gold marks—that is, about 500 million pounds. The rate of interest is 5%, or 25 million pounds yearly, without anything being available to liquidate paper, such as Treasury bills and War Loan in circulation. This sum is, of course, reckoned in marks, and the interest, owing to the present state of the money market, is not so serious as formerly. As against that, however, is the fact that, in this critical time, when the country is obliged to run further into debt to regain its balance, the sums required are on a far larger scale than formerly, and the interest and repayment will fall the more heavily on future taxpayers, as the process of restoration is brought about.

Added to all these responsibilities is the liability assumed under the Peace Treaty. This is the more serious since this sum is not rated in marks, but in pounds or francs. What the exact amount will be remains yet to be determined, but it is quite certain that, taking into account the rate of exchange, it will imply responsibilities out of all proportion to the existing ones. The ultimate form in which this liquidation to foreign countries will be made will be in the shape of services or of manufactured goods. The two forms are really identical. Services may include freight for shipping, commissions, banking rates, etc.; but since there is no German mercantile marine, the possibilities from these sources are small. Manufactured goods consist of imported raw materials, on which a certain amount of labour has been performed. Thus the German people, looking at the last analysis, will be obliged to render an incalculably vast amount of labour to wipe out every year a dead weight, so that the chances of life resuming that state when it will yield pleasure and recreation in reasonable extent are remote.

Furthermore, the real extent of the seriousness of affairs is not yet clear to the average German, because of the very instability which is so dreadfully perilous. The variability of prices of necessaries is accompanied by a rise of the prices for services, so that, for the moment, it seems as though all that one has to do is to become accustomed to thinking in terms of larger figures. Behind all this is the fact that things are costing more, because the obligations to foreign countries for goods supplied in exchange for German paper are growing every day. The full significance of this inevitable extravagance will only become apparent when the conditions become more steady. The paper in circulation is at present so much depreciated that a common labourer now handles sums only dreamed of formerly by millionaries; but the assumption behind all this paper is that it is ultimately redeemable in gold, and to declare otherwise would be to declare a state of bankruptcy, followed by the total collapse of the whole edifice of the State.

The process of return to former stability will also have a tragic history. It is a well-known economic law that times of falling prices are times of hardship, and, if conditions have to be brought about in which all the paper must be redeemed, it means that the paper will have to regain its former face value; hence prices will be always tending to fall. This will, moreover, mean that labour must be content with a nominally lower rate than at present, so far as the sum in marks is concerned. One can better imagine than describe what complications will follow before the colossal figures paid at present for labour will be relinquished.

Such are a few of the superficial considerations that face the statesman to-day, when he looks at the financial prospects. It is doubtful if any one man exists who is capable of seriously setting to work on a solution. Naturally, by regulating export and import so that only such articles are imported as may be absolutely necessary for life, or may directly serve to provide employment, while only fully manufactured, or, at any rate, a limited proportion of half-manufactured, goods may be exported—thus holding fast to all raw materials—something may be done to prevent the situation from growing worse. The taxation will have to be cleverly worked out, too, so that it leaves a margin on which to work. But it all comes back to the old cry of "increase production." There is a limit, however, to the amount of work, and hence the amount of productivity, that one man can perform. The efficiency of Germany before the war was so far greater than that of other industrial countries that it attracted hordes of observers, who took the country as a model. How it is possible to squeeze more productivity out of this already extraordinarily efficient machine is not yet clear. However, one can but try. That brings us back to the proposed loan.

It is no gift granted out of sympathy for distress. It is money advanced in order to repair a broken organism, so that it may function again. We want Germany to keep her promises. She must not be allowed to go bankrupt. The extent of the loan was supposed to have been about £100,000,000, but, translated into marks, it is a colossal amount. The interest alone would mean twice the sum required to meet the interest on the total war indebtedness. It is not intended, however, that Germany shall be free to use this money at her discretion. At the utmost she will only get one-third of the amount. The rest will be used to supply materials for the reconstruction of the damaged territories, and the bills will "be charged up to Germany." As this money probably will not be spent in Germany, it will provide no labour in the country, and will do nothing to set Germany on her feet. The apparent solution of all the ills of the moment is illusory. A drowning man clutches at a shadow in the firm belief that it will support his weight. Germany sets her hopes on the assistance now discussed being her rescue. It can stop the slide down the precipice. It may give heart enough to a dispirited people to try to work out an escape. The real effort comes afterwards or the whole system collapses, and France, Belgium, and perhaps Italy, will follow. It drives home to one even more forcibly than did the Conference that, even if outward forms are absent, the United States of Europe is an accomplished fact.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The fourth public sitting of the Council of the League of Nations was held in Paris on Sunday. Reports were proposed and adopted unanimously regarding each question on the agenda—namely, Armenia, the return of prisoners of war in Russia, the minorities in Turkey and Dantzig. In moving his resolution regarding the future of Armenia Mr. Herbert Fisher said that the Council of the League was of opinion that the constitution of a State of Armenia upon a free, secure, and independent basis was an object which would receive the sympathy and support of enlightened opinion throughout the civilised world. The Council does not anticipate that insuperable difficulties would arise in finding a mandatory for Armenia, and is entering into communication with the Supreme Council with a view to seeing what provisional financial arrangements could be made to facilitate the solution of the problem. The Council unanimously agreed to accept the request of Lord Curzon, dated March 12, asking it to consent to the guarantee clauses of the Treaty of Peace, now in preparation, concerning the protection of minorities in Turkey.

AMMUNITION AND SEDITIOUS LITERATURE.

COURTMARTIAL TRIALS IN DERRY.

At a courtmartial in Londonderry on Monday, John Treanor, of Derrylea, Emyvale, Monaghan, was charged with having a shot-gun and a copy of the official organ of the Irish Volunteers, in which it was stated that the nation for which no shots ring out and no steel is reddened will be like a bone in a kennel.

Accused said that he had no permit, because he had been refused a licence. He denied knowledge of the document.

A police sergeant said that the gun bore traces of powder, indicating that it had apparently been recently used.

Peter Doran, farmer, Fannaghmore, County Down, was charged with having two twelve bore cartridges, eight .22 rifle cartridges, 70 percussion caps, a printed document entitled "Open Letter to Irish Police," and a copy of the official organ of the Irish Volunteers.

Accused said that he had men working on his farm, and he was frequently away from home, so that there was nothing to prevent these documents and ammunition being left in his house during his absence. He had no knowledge of them.

The decisions in both cases will be announced later.

ORDER OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Mrs. Talbot, of Mount Talbot, on whom the O.B.E. has just been conferred for her war work in Roscommon, was for two years Acting Chairman of the County Roscommon Local Committee, and for three years Chairman of the Roscommon Town Committee.

SINN FEIN PRISONERS.

HUNGER STRIKE CONTINUES.

STATEMENT BY ARCHBISHOP WALSH.

There was again a large crowd outside Mountjoy Prison yesterday, when the hunger strike of over seventy Sinn Fein prisoners was continued. Relatives summoned by the authorities utilised the opportunity provided by the authorities of visiting their friends, and when seen subsequently they gave grave accounts of their condition.

Among the prisoners released yesterday was Mr. Black, Tipperary, who stated that on Sunday an endeavour was made to feed the prisoners forcibly, but they refused to submit to forcible feeding. That morning the Governor offered them barley water, but they would not take it. Among the prisoners whose condition was very grave when they were leaving were Messrs. Michael O'Connell, Thurles; B. O'Driscoll, West Cork; William Reilly and Hugh Holohan, Dublin.

It is stated that members of the medical staff of the prison made a representation on Friday for the release of 72 of the prisoners.

Mr. E. McGough, one of the Visiting Justices, stated that he was so impressed by the state of the prisoners that he wrote a report on the Justices' book and communicated with the authorities, but received no reply.

During the afternoon and evening a large crowd of friends and sympathisers assembled outside Mountjoy Jail. A clear passage through the North Circular road was maintained by a cordon of police. None but those having business at the prison were allowed to pass.

An exciting incident occurred when the police seized a Sinn Fein flag, which was waved in response to signals alleged to be given from the prison. A party of military was drafted into the prison during the afternoon.

After 7 p.m. it is estimated that there were at least six thousand people present, and there was some cheering at times. The crowd also joined in singing songs. The police and military seemed anxious only to keep the crowds from disorder, and exercised great patience, as on several occasions they were objects of hostile demonstrations, of which, however, they took no notice.

At half-past six o'clock a man, who gave his name as John Burns, was arrested. He had been distributing leaflets among the people.

Another arrest took place between 7 and 8 p.m. Captain White, who was well-known in Dublin during the labour troubles of 1911-13, and also with labour troubles in Wales, was taken into custody on the North Circular road, where he made a speech to the soldiers guarding the approach to the prison.

The crowd became thinner as the night advanced, and as midnight approached the locality was in a normal condition.

Appeals were made to different quarters where it was hoped influence might be exercised which would prevail with the authorities in favour of a modification of the prison rules.

APPEAL TO MR. BONAR LAW.

Last night the Lord Mayor of Dublin (Alderman O'Neill) and the High Sheriff (Dr. MacWalter) asked for an interview with the Lord Lieutenant with regard to the condition of the prisoners in Mountjoy Jail. They received a reply referring them to the statement which Mr. Bonar Law made in the House of Commons recently, and adding that His Majesty's Government had now to deal with the matter.

At six o'clock the following telegram was sent to Mr. Bonar Law at the House of Commons:—

"Lord Mayor and High Sheriff of Dublin applied this evening to the Lord Lieutenant to grant them an interview concerning the dangerous condition of the political prisoners who are at present on hunger strike in Mountjoy Jail, to point out to His Excellency the terrible risk to the peace of the city should any of the men die. He refused to see us, and through his secretary referred us to the decision of His Majesty's Government, as stated by you in the House of Commons recently. We, therefore, appeal to you directly to release the prisoners, whose health has been impaired by hunger strike, as in the recent case of Alderman O'Brien of Dublin.

(Signed) "O'NEILL, Lord Mayor.
"MACWALTER, High Sheriff."

STATEMENT BY ARCHBISHOP WALSH.

In the course of an interview yesterday afternoon with a representative of the Evening Herald, the Most Rev. Dr. Walsh, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Dublin, said that nothing he could say would tend to avert the impending catastrophe. He had the gravest possible apprehension of the consequences of a rigid adherence to the present rules, but he was not disposed to utter any words which might incline to aggravate rather than allay the excitement at present prevailing in public opinion in Dublin. The statement that Lord French had said that he had not the power to alter the rules showed that not only had Castle government its powers for evil, but it disclosed its own helplessness for good. The sooner that rule was abandoned the better would be the prospect of restoring peace to Ireland. In the parallel English case at Wormwood Scrubbs, the highest official authority said that the hunger strikers "might choose to commit suicide," but the rules would not be relaxed. This was stated most definitely, but on the following day the Government's resistance broke down, and Mr. Wm. O'Brien was transferred to a place where he could be treated according to the dictates of humanity. That was what was done at Wormwood Scrubbs, and he did not see why that could not be followed here.

He did not trouble himself about English opinion, but he could not conceive the possibility of things at present done in Ireland by Castle rule being tolerated for one week in England. It was appalling to think of what confronted Ireland now as the result of the obstinacy of the Government in treating as criminals men who had not been convicted, tried, or charged. This was not promoting the interests of law and order, but he trusted that Dublin Castle would recognise the fearful responsibility that it now seemed to be incurring so lightly.

QUESTION IN THE COMMONS.

In the House of Commons yesterday,

Mr. T. P. O'Connor asked the Attorney-General for Ireland a question, of which he had given him private notice, namely—What was the present condition of a number of prisoners in Mountjoy Jail; was it a fact that many of these were on hunger strike, and were in danger of death; how many of these prisoners were under sentence, and how many were detained on suspicion.

Mr. Denis Henry said that he had only just received the notice of his hon. friend, and it was impossible for him, in the time at his disposal, to ascertain the numbers for which he asked. He would be obliged to Mr. O'Connor if he would repeat the question next day.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor said that he admitted that the notice was short, but he had given it early in the day, though it did not happen to reach the Attorney-General. He hoped that the right hon. gentleman would see the urgency of the matter, in face of the reports in the newspapers, that many of the unfortunate men who were in jail were at the present moment in deadly peril of death. (Laughter.)

Hon. members—Why don't they eat?

Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy—Order, order. Have some decency.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor said that he would not take any notice of the interruptions, which did not add to the dignity or prestige of the House. He would simply put it to the Attorney-General for Ireland, whether, in view of the fact that, according to the reports in the newspapers, many of these men were in such a condition of health that their relatives were called upon to visit them, he would see that he got an answer as early as possible.

Mr. Denis Henry—I will do my best.

FURTHER STATEMENT.

On the motion for the adjournment of the House of Commons last night,

Lieutenant-Commander Kenworthy asked for information as to the prisoners in Mountjoy Prison. Was it a fact that some 100 political prisoners were in Mountjoy Jail on hunger strike; of this 100, were the majority men who had not been tried, or even charged before a magistrate; were they men who had been simply arrested on suspicion of having committed, or being about to commit, some crime? Was it a fact that there was great anxiety in Dublin and in Ireland generally; that several of these young men might die within the next few hours? Was it true that a general strike had been threatened to bring about the release of the men, and was it the Government's policy to permit purely political prisoners, not placed on trial, in their present state of exaltation to starve to death, and so commit suicide?

Mr. Denis Henry, Attorney-General for Ireland, said that since the member for the Scotland Division of Liverpool had put a question which at the moment he was unable to answer, he had communicated with Dublin, and he would read a telegram he had received as to the Mountjoy Prison hunger strike. The Prisons Board reported that the condition of all the prisoners on hunger strike in Mountjoy was weak, and that some were nearing the danger zone. The number on strike was 89. The total number of so-called political prisoners at present in Mountjoy Prison was 151. The number of those under sentence was seven, and the number under detention, including those awaiting trial, was 81. The result of the figures was that there were 89 out of 151 on hunger-strike, and the 89 included a number of convicted prisoners, including men convicted in the ordinary way before a jury. The Attorney-General added that the Chairman of the Justices (Mr. Clarke) and the Lord Mayor of Dublin sent a telegram to His Excellency, who replied that there was no power under the rules made in November last to extend political treatment to convicted prisoners, who were excluded from ameliorative treatment. Untried prisoners were treated under the rules for untried prisoners. His Excellency did not propose to modify the rules. All the prisoners on hunger-strike had been forewarned of the result of their conduct. The Leader of the House, before the adjournment, mentioned the case of a hunger-strike at Wormwood Scrubbs Prison. Since then there had been a similar hunger-strike there, but it had been abandoned.

Mr. MacVeagh said that of all the explanations he had heard from the Government Bench, that of the Attorney-General for Ireland was the weakest. The Attorney-General conveyed the impression that all the prisoners were convicted by juries, but the truth of the matter was that only two or three were convicted by juries. The rest of the men had been placed there after conviction by courtmartial, having been denied a civil trial, under the pretence that the war was still proceeding, and these were men against whom no definite charge had been made, and concerning whom the late Chief Secretary for Ireland declared the Government did not intend to make any charge, or to put them upon their trial. And these were the men who were allowed by the Irish Government to die in prison at the present time in Ireland. Speaking with a sense of great responsibility, he would say that if one of these men were allowed to die, it would mean the laying up of trouble for the future, the end of which no man could foresee. Public opinion in Ireland and England would be outraged. It was perfectly useless for the Attorney-General to shelter himself behind the Cabinet. This was being done by the Irish Government alone. English opinion would not tolerate the system. The Attorney-General did not tell the House that the Visiting Surgeon of the prison had resigned owing to the conduct of the Government, nor did he tell the House that the whole of the medical staff of the prison had called upon the Government to release these men, who were being tortured until they died. Should they die they would go down in history as heroes and martyrs. Why was the policy adopted in this matter different from that of England? The Attorney-General did not tell the House that the Lord Mayor of Dublin, the Chief Magistrate of the city, had not been permitted to enter the prison to see how the men were getting on. That would be impossible in any city in England.

Sir William Davidson—Has he taken the oath of a magistrate?

Mr. MacVeagh—I do not know that; but what has that got to do with it? The Lord Mayor has always been allowed to enter the prison. Mr. MacVeagh mentioned that one of the prisoners in Wormwood Scrubbs Prison was not allowed out on parole to see his sick child—a privilege always accorded to untried prisoners. The relatives "wired" to the Governor, who replied that the man had not been released on parole, as the Irish Government objected. They would not allow the man out, and his child died that night. (Cries of "Shame.") He advised hon. members to be very careful, and to remember that there was a public opinion in England, and that acts of barbarism such as they were now considering would meet with a speedy revenge.

ONE-DAY STRIKE.

LABOUR AND MOUNTJOY PRISONERS.

MANIFESTO TO WORKERS.

As a protest against the treatment of Sinn Fein prisoners in Mountjoy Jail, a general strike has been called by the Irish Labour and Trades Union Congress, and a general stoppage of all work throughout the country has been decreed to-day.

The manifesto, which is addressed to the workers of Ireland, and signed by Messrs. Thomas Farren, Chairman, and Thomas Johnson, acting secretary, is as follows:—

"You are called upon to act swiftly and suddenly to save a hundred dauntless men. At this hour their lives are hanging by a thread in the bastille. These men, for the greater part our fellow-workers and comrades in our trade unions, have been forcibly taken from their homes and their families and imprisoned without charge; or, if charged, tried under exceptional laws for alleged offences of a political character, in outrageous defiance of every canon of justice.

"They are suspected of loving Ireland and hating her oppressors: a heinous crime in the sight of tyrants, but one of which hundreds of thousands of Irish working men and women proudly acclaim their guilt.

"No one, therefore, is guaranteed his freedom; no one dare be confident that he or she is safe from molestation, or rely upon protection by law or justice.

"Our fellow-workers now in Mountjoy, Wormwood Scrubbs, and other prisons have adopted the only method remaining to them against the injustice of their imprisonment and against being treated as criminals. They have for eight days been on hunger strike. To-day, though many are at the point of death, their titled jailers venomously shriek, 'Let them die.' We, workers, dare not allow this tragedy to come to pass. Verbal protests are vain. Resolutions, votes, constitutional practices, have been worn to shreds. They are cast aside as useless.

"As trade unionists we have only one weapon left—a general strike—a weapon that may be used but seldom, and only in times of supreme crises.

"Such an occasion has now arisen. The call is urgent. There is no time to gather your delegates into conference.

"Therefore, we, the undersigned, on behalf of the National Executive, hereby call for a general stoppage of all work throughout the country to-morrow (Tuesday), April 13 (with the exception of those employed on newspapers, telegraph service, baking of bread, and essential food distribution, humanitarian services and necessary work amongst horses and cattle), in protest against the barbarous treatment of the political prisoners, and demanding their release.

"Workers! Let your response to this sudden call be so unanimous as will impress the peoples of other lands with your determination to put an end to tyranny and oppression.

"Irish workers! In the name of humanity give a lead in this, as you did in your fight against conscription."

If the decision of the Congress is carried out, it will mean a general paralysis of business throughout the country, as it is likely that the majority of trade unionists will obey the ukase issued on their behalf.

The manifesto will involve the tramway workers, the drapery and allied trades' assistants', as well as other shop assistants, including those employed in the grocery, provision, and licensed trades.

Placards bearing the Labour manifesto were yesterday evening posted up in Dublin.

So far as the port is concerned, the decision to call a general strike, and declare work "off" for to-day, must mean a serious dislocation of cross-Channel traffic, and consequent delay to shippers and the public. If morning inward steamers are to be allowed to lie at their berths unloaded, it means that return sailings from Dublin must be postponed until to-morrow, and this will have the effect of throwing the entire week's business out of gear. The effects on "perishable" foodstuffs will be serious.

RAILWAY WORKERS' DEMONSTRATION.

Last evening, at four o'clock, the men employed in the railway workshops of the Midland Great Western Co. at the Broadstone struck work, and, forming up in military formation, marched in processional order, with a Sinn Fein tricolour at their head. They proceeded via the Phibsborough road to the front of Mountjoy Prison, where much cheering was indulged in. The railway workshop men then marched citywards, and passed through Sackville street to Beresford place, where speeches were delivered, their sentiment representing an intention not to return to work until the Sinn Fein prisoners had been released from Mountjoy Prison.

TRANSPORT WORKERS AND RAILWAY MEN.

All the members of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, with the exception of those engaged on essential services, will cease work.

Railwaymen working on railways having termini in Dublin at a meeting last night passed a resolution which stated:—

> "That, as a protest against the inhuman treatment of political prisoners now in prison in Dublin and elsewhere without trial, and the consequent degradation of men of their standing, we, the railway-workers, have decided to withdraw our labour as a protest against such treatment meted out to our fellow-countrymen in their fight for political freedom. We call upon the Government at once to either liberate the political prisoners or place them upon trial, and give them an opportunity of proving their innocence or guilt. No nation could for a moment withstand the trend of public opinion in its undoubted opposition to such a reactionary Government policy."

This action on the part of the railwaymen has, it is stated, been taken on their own responsibility, and has not been authorised by the National Union of Railwaymen. In addition, the men employed at the Inchicore railway works have decided to strike.

The Vehicle Workers' Union has instructed its members to cease work as from midnight, so that no trams will be running in Dublin to-day.

In accordance with the resolution of the Municipal Council at their meeting yesterday regarding the general strike, the Public Lighting Committee notify the public that there will be no street lamps lighted to-night.

THE STRIKE IN CORK.

Our Cork Correspondent, telegraphing last night, said the arrangements for a strike to-day in Cork City were complete, and all trades, except those specially exempted, will suspend work. The railwaymen, at a meeting last evening, decided that only the up mail last night would be despatched, and this was accordingly done at 8.45 p.m.

THE CORK INQUEST.

JURY'S REMARKABLE RESOLUTION.

EVIDENCE OF MAJOR-GENERAL STRICKLAND.

(FROM OUR REPORTER.)

CORK, MONDAY.

When the inquest in connection with the shooting of Alderman Thomas MacCurtain, Lord Mayor of Cork, was resumed in the City Hall here this afternoon by Mr. J. McCabe, Coroner, the building was crowded, the greatest interest being centred in the proceedings. The principal feature of the sitting was the handing in by the jury of a resolution calling for the presence of the Lord Lieutenant and Sir John Taylor as witnesses, and the decision of the Coroner to issue summonses for their attendance.

At the sitting of the Court, Mr. P. Lynch, K.C., who, with Mr. J. Crowley (instructed by Mr. M. O'Connor), appeared for the next-of-kin, said that he now intended to close the evidence. He regretted that it was impossible to obtain the attendance of a witness in Wormwood Scrubbs Prison. The cause of it was owing to the fact that they were not aware of its importance. If they had been so aware, it would have been possible to have his presence there. There was another matter to which he would refer. The Lady Mayoress was anxious to come back from the place where she was resting to give some evidence to the jury in relation to statements that had been made in evidence as to what occurred at the house on the morning of March 20. They who appeared for the next-of-kin, however, had taken the responsibility of not calling on her again, as they did not think it would be right to bring her there in her present state of health.

Mr. J. Travers Wolfe, Crown Solicitor, said that as regards the witness who was interned in Wormwood Scrubbs he only wished to make it clear that when the matter was mentioned to him he (Mr. Wolfe) did everything possible to secure the witness's attendance.

Mr. Lynch—That is quite right.

Mr. Wolfe added that he quite approved of Mr. Lynch's remarks regarding the attendance of the Lady Mayoress, "for I would refuse," he said, "to cross-examine her if she had come, and I would not be an Irishman if I did anything else." (Applause.)

MAJOR-GENERAL STRICKLAND AND THE ORDER FOR ARREST.

Major-General Strickland, Commanding the Forces in Cork, was the first witness sworn. In reply to the Foreman, he said that the order for the arrest of the Lord Mayor came from the Government.

The Foreman—Is it from any particular department of the Government? I cannot say.

You cannot say what department? It comes to me through the Commander-in-Chief in Ireland.

Did the document contain any instructions beyond the arrest of the Lord Mayor? Arrest and search his house.

Your officer, according to the evidence, had to report himself at King street. Are we to assume that having reported there he was partly under the direction of the Constabulary? No.

Had he, previous to his arrival in King street, any idea as to the nature of the duties that he was to perform? He knew that he was going to effect an arrest.

Witness pointed out that all the operations carried out by troops in Cork were carried out under the orders of the Officer Commanding for the day, and he did not deal in detail with each operation, but he dealt with the Brigade Commanders.

The Foreman—The jury would like to know when you got the order to arrest the Lord Mayor. It was received about midday on the 19th May.

I ask did the Order mention any other names for arrest? I cannot answer that.

I suppose you know what your officer stated on Saturday with regard to carrying out operations at the Lord Mayor's residence? Do you consider that your officer acted rightly in conducting the search without the police? I do.

Do you consider the officer acted rightly in persisting in the search when he was informed of the tragedy that had occurred? I would say that orders given to officers in making arrest invariably include search. In a case such as this it could not possibly have been foreseen, and consequently could not have been provided for. The officer was placed in a very awkward position. He had to rely on his own judgment whether a search should be carried out under the circumstances or not.

Don't you think that your officer could have communicated by telephone to Headquarters, when he found how things were? I very much doubt if he knew that there was a telephone on the premises.

Asked by Mr. Lynch were any steps taken by the military to ascertain the whereabouts of the Lord Mayor on the night of the 19th March, General Strickland said that he was not aware of the arrangements carried out by the Cork Brigade with reference to the arrest of the Lord Mayor.

What are the arrangements made to ascertain the whereabouts of a man about to be arrested? I believe the first effort is to find him in his house.

In this particular case Lieutenant Cook told us that he was not aware until he met the police that he was to arrest the Lord Mayor that night? I will explain that officers do not know the residences of various persons that they are directed to arrest in Cork, and the police are empowered to show them.

Mr. Lynch said that Lieutenant Cook left them under the impression that he was not aware that he was to arrest the Lord Mayor until he met the police. Witness said he could give no information on that.

Mr. Lynch—You can give us no assistance on that? Witness thought that he would know it.

Mr. Wolfe—We know in fact that he did not know the name.

JURY'S REQUEST FOR VICEROY AND SIR JOHN TAYLOR.

At this stage the jury handed the Coroner a resolution, which they requested him to read. It was as follows:—

"As we are now nearing the end of the local evidence that is to be produced, and as it has appeared in the public Press without official contradiction that the authorities in Dublin Castle have information as to where the murderers of the late Lord Mayor are, and as to the motives which inspired the murder, in order to enable the jury to arrive at a just conclusion touching the circumstances into which we are inquiring we are of opinion that His Excellency Lord French, and Sir John Taylor, Under-Secretary, should be summoned by you, sir, as witnesses in this inquiry.—On behalf of the jury,

"WILLIAM J. BARRY (Foreman)."

Mr. Wolfe said that they were there with the one common object of endeavouring to trace the assassins of the late Lord Mayor, and all he had to say was that any information in his possession had already been tendered. He had broken down rules, perhaps, that would not be broken down by anybody else in submitting to the jury reports that ordinarily a jury would not see.

Mr. Lynch said that it was for the jury to exercise their own discretion.

A Juror—We don't want to throw blame on anybody who does not deserve it, and it would relieve us of a very great responsibility if they can prove to us in Dublin Castle that they can put their hands upon the murderers.

Mr. Wolfe—That is what we are all here for, and if we can get proof from either Dublin Castle or Cork who the murderers are by any assistance that the authorities can give, we are at your disposal.

The Foreman—That resolution is the result of what has appeared in the public Press. So far I have not seen any official contradition of the veracity of the statement of a certain journalist. From that I assume, according to Lord French's statement, that the Castle is in possession of facts which would clear up the murder. That is why the resolution has been drafted.

The Coroner—I think it is a very proper resolution.

The Coroner announced that he would issue summonses for the attendance of Lord French and Sir John Taylor, when the inquest would resume on Saturday.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR'S EVIDENCE.

John Wellwood, a telephone operator, who was on duty at the Exchange on the morning of March 20, was then called. He stated that he received a message stating that the Lord Mayor of Cork had been shot. It was a lady who spoke, and she said that she required a clergyman. Witness did everything possible to facilitate her, and succeeded in getting a clergyman. He also suggested to her the advisability of calling a doctor. He got a further call for the ambulance, and he then communicated the intelligence he had received to the police at Union quay.

The inquiry was adjourned until Saturday at 10 o'clock.

BAVARIA AND GERMANY.

A sensational statement by the Bavarian Premier, Herr von Kahn, is reported by the Tageblatt's Munich Correspondent, says a Reutre's Berlin telegram. It was made, the correspondent says, in a speech to leaders of the Munich Civic Guard before Herr von Kahn went to Stuttgart to attend the conference of the South German States. Bavaria must, the Premier said, most energetically oppose the disbandment of the Civic Guard, and he had, he declared, definitely demanded of the Berlin Government the cancellation of the disbandment order.

As things are, however, the Premier added, we must unfortunately reckon with the possibility that the German Government may not absolutely share our standpoint. Bavaria would in such a case proceed on her own course, even at the cost of temporary separation from the German Reich. The situation is extremely serious. We do not know what the next few days, or even hours, may bring forth; but, should the Berlin Government not act in accordance with our representations, we know our ways would part.

THE THURLES SHOOTINGS.

INQUEST ON JAMES McCARTHY.

REMARKABLE EVIDENCE.

(FROM OUR REPORTER.)

THURLES, MONDAY.

The adjourned inquest on the body of James McCarthy, who was shot dead at his residence in Fianna road, Thurles, at about 1.30 a.m. on Saturday, 27th March last, was resumed to-day by Dr. Martin Fennelly, Coroner for Mid-Tipperary, at the Courthouse, Thurles.

Mr. Babington, K.C. (instructed by Mr. Michael Gleeson, Crown Solicitor), appeared on behalf of the Crown.

Mr. J. P. Carrigan, solicitor, appeared for the next-of-kin, and Mr. W. J. Skinner appeared for the father of the deceased man.

County Inspector Dunlop and District Inspector Golden were present on behalf of the police.

The following acted on the jury:—Bernard Fitzpatrick (foreman), John Brereton, D. Addish, L. Hickey, H. Shelley, Phil Moloney, Thos. Maher, Michael Carew, P. Connolly, James Mullaney, Thomas Ryan, Denis Kinane, J. Kirby, Michael Ryan.

There was a delay of an hour in starting the proceedings, owing to a misunderstanding by solicitors and jurors as to whether it had been fixed for "new" time or "old" time.

The Coroner, at the outset of the proceedings, read the deposition of Michael McCarthy, brother of the deceased man, giving formal evidence of identification. The deposition has already been published.

The witness was further examined by Mr. Carrigan as follows:—You live on the Mall, Thurles? Yes.

And who resides with you in the house there? My three brothers, my mother, my aunt, and two sisters. The names of my brothers are James (the deceased), Thomas and William. My two sisters' names are Eileen and Annie, and my aunt is Miss Anne Ryan.

Is it a two-storey house? Yes.

And how many rooms are in the top storey? There are three rooms in the top storey, and three below with a kitchen.

Is there a small hall-way leading from the front door into the kitchen? Yes.

Now, on the night of Friday, 26th March, who occupied the rooms on the top storey? Myself and James were in one room.

Who occupied the others? My brothers Tom and William. James and myself occupied separate beds in one bedroom, and Thomas and William slept in one bed in the next room. These two rooms communicate by a door. In the third room on the top floor my aunt, Anne Ryan, slept. My mother and two sisters occupied a bedroom downstairs off the kitchen.

These were the only occupants of the house on the night of the 26th March? Yes.

At what time were you in bed? I was in bed at twenty minutes to 10 o'clock that night. The rest of the family were in bed at about 10 o'clock.

Did anything happen later on that night? At about 1.30 a.m. there was a slight tapping on the front door.

What did you do? I woke up and listened. The next that I heard was a loud banging with some implement—not with the hand—at the door. I jumped up out of bed and went to the window over the door. I turned the blind aside and looked down.

Was it a bright night? It was a very bright, moonlight night.

What did you see when you looked down? I saw two tall men, wearing long, black overcoats and policemen's caps.

Did they do anything? Yes. Immediately two of them stepped a pace backwards and looked up at the window, one of them having his rifle cocked. He held the rifle at the "present" like that (witness lifted his hands as though presenting a rifle).

What did you do then? James then came over to the window.

What did he do? He went from that window into another room.

What did you do? I said that there were police at the door, and we were going to be murdered. I knelt down (witness proceeded), and James knelt down too. James then went into the bedroom occupied by William and Thomas. During that time the knocking at the door continued. When James went into his brother's room he looked out through the window, and came back to me and said: "They are police," and "I'll let them in." I told him not to do so, as I had a suspicion that they were coming to kill him. At that time he had only his trousers on. For a moment after he had spoken James hesitated in the room, and the banging at the door became twice as loud. "I'll open the door," he said then; "if I don't they will break it in."

THE SHOOTING DESCRIBED.

He ran quickly down the stairs, shouting, "All right, all right," as the banging still continued. He went to the door, and witness heard him say, "What do you want?" The reply given by a voice from outside was "open." He said, "Right you are, I'll open." He then opened the door. Just as the door opened the men outside asked, "What's your name?" He answered, "James McCarthy."

I heard two shots then ring out, witness said, and I ran down the stairs, wearing only my trousers and shirt. When coming down the stairs I heard the rustling of hard waterproof coats, and footsteps of people wearing rubber-soled boots going from the door. There was no light in the kitchen at this time. When I got to the kitchen I found my brother James lying in front of the fireplace, with one hand under his head and the other across his chest. He was bleeding, and I could see the blood oozing from his shirt. He gave a slight moan, but was unable to talk. I called for someone to go for a priest, and my sister, Eileen, came out and ran for the priest. I went upstairs and got my coat and waistcoat, and while going up I heard a bang outside, as if another shot was fired. I also followed my sister to get the priest, and my brother, William, attended to James. On my way to the presbytery I knocked up some of the neighbours. I waited for the priest, and as one was coming out of the presbytery a few minutes afterwards Thomas met us at the gate and said, "James is dead." The priest advised me to stay in the presbytery, but I refused, and came along. On that morning John Bourke found the bullet (produced) in the house. It fell out of James's clothes when lifting the body on to the bed.

Witness added that there was a piece of cloth adhering to the bullet. A second bullet (produced) was found embedded in the wall at the foot of the stairs. That bullet went through the skirting at the foot of the stairs and became embedded in the wall. Witness cut it out. A third bullet (produced)—it was a flat bullet—was found on the same morning by witness's brother, William, outside the front door.

FAMILY HISTORY.

Mr. Carrigan—Was deceased mixed up in any political organisation of any kind? No; the only organisation he was connected with was the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. He was a member of that Union.

That was the only association he belonged to? Yes.

Witness added that his deceased brother was a baker, and worked with witness and his other brothers in Mr. Johnson's bakery. He had no enemies whatever. Witness was a member of the Urban Council, and President of the Transport Workers' Union, and a member of the Sinn Fein Committee. As a member of the Urban Council witness, at a Council meeting, denounced the conduct of the police on the night of the 20th January in firing into and breaking the windows of certain houses in the town.

Mr. Babington objected, and said that they were not investigating those occurrences.

Mr. Carrigan—I thought you said you courted the fullest inquiry. If you want the fullest inquiry I intend to show why this man's house was attacked on this night and his brother shot.

Mr. Gleeson (Crown Solicitor)—Very well, if you put it that way.

Witness added that he called for an inquiry into the conduct of the police and the names of the police who took part in that conduct.

THREATENING LETTERS.

Mr. Carrigan—Did you subsequently receive this postcard (produced)? Yes, sir.

This postcard was attached to the deposition.

Mr. Carrigan said that the postcard was addressed—"Michael M'Carthy, U.C., The Mall, Thurles," and then followed three notes of interrogation, after which it stated—"Sir,—If you care to ramble up Friar street about 10 p.m. or thereabouts the police who sacked the Town of Thurles will be pleased to give you necessary information.—Yours, etc., Gorey and Wexford."

Witness said that he did not accept that invitation, but he went up portion of the street afterwards to attend a Transport Workers' meeting.

Replying to further questions by Mr. Carrigan, witness stated—On the morning of the 24th January I received the envelope (produced) with the notice therein. It is addressed to "The M'Carthy Brothers, The Mall, Thurles," and contained the following notice—"Take notice, you will depart this life unless you leave the town within 24 hours.—(Signed) VENGEANCE."

Did you also denounce the conduct of defacing the 1798 Memorial in Thurles by its being painted and daubed? Yes, I did.

It was daubed in certain colours? Yes; red, white, and blue.

The shooting of your brother took place at half-past one in the morning? Yes.

And when did any police call to investigate the case? Not until near 9 o'clock.

VISITS BY POLICE.

Had you seen police pass on the other side of the street in the meantime? Yes; I saw six or eight police pass by the house between 5 and 6 o'clock.

They did not call? No; they looked over at the house when passing.

Now, have the police visited your house on more than one occasion? Yes; on four occasions. On the first occasion they searched the house for explosives. That was after the raid

SPECIAL EXTRA.

SINN FEIN AND GERMANY.

The Morning Post publishes the following statement from a Special Correspondent in Ireland:—Further proof of the direct relations between the Sinn Fein Organisation and Germany is now forthcoming. I am able to send you details of the most interesting character, including letters from an Irish agent who has recently visited Germany to his friends here. One of these letters is addressed to the notorious Baron von Horst. The Baron was interned in this country up to the end of the war. He was a well-known German agent in Great Britain, and he was apparently employed by the Sinn Fein organisation to ship arms from Hamburg. The story begins, so far as the public may know it, with the arrival of the ship Olga at Grangemouth, the scene of David Balfour's kidnapping. She was searched, and it was found that she had on board two whippet tanks, 21 field guns, and a large quantity of ammunition, together with a supply of American Red Cross stores. These had been shipped from Marseilles by the French Government, and were intended for General Judenitch. Then it was found out that another ship, which had started from a certain port with 500 tons of small arms ammunition, was a German vessel, and was waiting for orders in the Downs. These reached her, and were that she should go to Grangemouth and shift her cargo into the Olga. The second cargo of munitions had been intended for Denikin. Both ships were eventually to have gone to Glasgow for bunker coal, where they would have been within easy reach of the Sinn Fein organisation. What put the authorities on the alert as to the ultimate destination of these cargoes were letters written by a Mr. Thomas Loughlin, of Dublin. I give two of these letters, which are carefully worded, and contain a code that, as a matter of fact, has been deciphered. The letters were not sent direct, but to an intermediary.

The Correspondent appends two of the deciphered letters, including one addressed to Baron von Horst, Berlin.

The first letter is addressed to "Dear Madame," and records the writer's (Thomas J. Loughlin) pleasure at his visit to Germany. The following is the text of the second letter, which "Dear Madame" was asked to deliver to "The Baron":—

Addressed to "Baron von Horst, Berlin. Findor Manufacturers Agency, importers and exporters of general merchandise. Principals, T. J. Loughlin, J. Forestal.

"19 Parliament street, Dublin, Ireland.
"Inquiries invited for Irish Products,
"March 3rd, 1920.

"My dear Baron,—As you will perceive, I have arrived home safely, after a very enjoyable trip, and I hope, from the business standpoint, a very successful one. I have put the right people here in possession of the details you gave me on various matters, and I think you may be prepared for eventualities. Please write me at once when you get the information from Hamburgh re ships. This is most important, and must not be overlooked, as we are now in a positon to come to business. If you come across any Government electric cable would you be able to let me have a sample, and details of voltage, etc.? You will understand what I mean. There is a great shortage of that particular stuff here, and what there is of it at an unheard of price. The Dublin Corporation is very short of supplies, and if the staff was suitable would be prepared to buy in large quantities. I am sending this letter (by the usual route), as I believe it is safer. When you write to me, enclose your letter in a private envelope. That is—let there be no indication on the outside as to the source from whence it comes. Please keep me in touch with interesting matter in the Fatherland, and I will do likewise with you. With very best wishes and thanks for your kindness to me when in Germany.

"Is Mise.
(Signed) "THOMAS J. LOUGHLIN."

THE VESSELS UNDER GUARD.

The Edinburgh Correspondent of the Morning Post, telegraphing on Monday, says:—The two foreign steamers are at present lying off Bo'ness, in the Firth of Forth, under guard, and many tales are in circulation as to the nature of their cargoes and the ports for which they were destined. One of the vessels is the Algeiba, of Hamburg, and the other is the Olga, from South Russia. The net tonnage of the Olga is 2,000 and that of the Algeiba 1,257. It is not apparent what, if any, connection exists between the ships. It is said that an official investigation is proceeding. Another version is to the effect that the munitions which the vessels carried were intended, not for Ireland, but for the Esthonian Government, and that when that Government made peace with the Bolsheviks the ships remained at Grangemouth.

PICKETING AT WASHINGTON.

Ten women altogether have been arrested for picketing the British Embassy at Washington, says a Reuter's telegram. They are to be tried by a Federal Grand Jury.

HIGHER POSTAL RATES.

It is understood, states The Times, that Mr. Austen Chamberlain will announce higher postal rates in his Budget statement next Monday. The Government have been seriously considering the question of raising the letter-rate from 1½d. to 2d., and the rates for telegrams have also been under review, the obvious change being the raising of the minimum from 9d. to 1s. The Government will ask the House of Commons shortly—probably before Whitsuntide—to appoint a Select Committee to report on a new scale of telephone rates, which the Post Office is framing. The problem with the department is that it cannot make ends meet with its present charges. Its estimated expenditure for the new financial year is over £8,000,000 more than that for last year, and this will be largely increased as the result of substantial wage concessions to the Post Office servants, which have been virtually agreed upon. It is chiefly this prospect of a higher wages bill which has brought twopenny postage within the range of practical politics.

REVOLT IN GUATEMALA.

The long-threatened revolution in Guatemala has, says a Reuter's Washington telegram, at length broken out. The State Department learns that the opponents of President Cabrera have gained control of Guatemala City after some street fighting. A Marine guard from the United States cruiser Tacona has landed to protect foreign interests.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The dominating influence in the Stock markets yesterday, says The Times, was the further break in the French exchange, which resulted in selling pressure being directed towards all securities of an Anglo-French character.

THE THURLES SHOOTINGS.

in Molloy's yard. They asked me had I any explosives in the house, and I said "No." They told me that they were searching for high explosives, and they asked me could I guarantee that I had no high explosive in the house.

When was the next occasion they called? In May or June, 1919, they called for William M'Carthy, who was in the house. They came to my bed, and were going to arrest me for him. They called at about a quarter to 4 o'clock in the morning. They were not at first able to identify William, but they called in a man who was out in the yard, and then arrested him for illegal drilling.

What was the next occasion? The next occasion was the night of the Knocklong train shooting.

Who did they come to look for? No one in particular. They came to see were myself and my brothers in the house. They found myself and all my brothers in bed. On the next occasion the police visited us in the bakehouse, where we were working. This was about four or five weeks ago. They asked us to account for our movements on the night of January 20th, and we all satisfactorily accounted, so far as I know.

Questioned as to whether he could identify the two men that he saw outside the window the night his brother was shot, witness said that he saw the man who presented the rifle with his cap well pulled down over his face. He could give a good description of them, but could not actually swear to their identify. "I have no doubt," witness added, "the caps they wore were the ordinary police caps."

CROSS-EXAMINATION OF WITNESS.

Cross-examined by Mr. Babington, witness said that his house was situated in a long row of houses, and had a garden at the rear. The moon was shining in front of the house at half-past 1 o'clock on the night of the occurrence. He pulled the blind aside, and on looking out a second time the men stepped out in front of the house, and he distinctly saw them, particularly the man with the rifle. "There is a policeman whom I saw in court this morning similar to the man whom I saw with the rifle in his hand," witness added. Witness only saw one man with a rifle. When he looked out first they were standing on the pavement right beside the door. As far as he could see they had no disguise, but their caps were pulled well down over their eyes, which threw a black shade on their face. Witness had a suspicion on account of what happened in Cork that the man with the rifle had come there to shoot him. James saw the men every bit as plain as he did, and shouted "They are police." Witness said to his brother that he thought he (witness) was going to be murdered. "We then knelt down to say our prayers," witness stated, "and my brother went down to open the door, I was almost satisfied then that some of us were going to be shot. I did not try to escape at the back of the house, because the dog was barking, and I believed there were men at the back, as they had been before on other raids. I looked out through the back window, but saw nobody. Late in the morning I found the woodwork of the back gate bent, as if somebody had been pulling at it or trying to force it in. If I had my way the door would never have been opened, and we would have been shot inside, although we had nothing but a knife or fork to defend ourselves. I only hope others," witness added, "will take warning and not open their doors." He received the warning note on Saturday, January 24th, and he suggested that it came from the police, from what he heard on the night of the smashing of the town, when one person in particular told him the police were looking for their house on that night, and calling out their names. That was the night Constable Finnegan had been shot and the town sacked.

Questioned as to whether he thought the notice was vengeance for the death of Constable Finnegan, witness replied, "I assumed it must be that."

INCIDENT IN COMMITTEE ROOM.

Mr. Babington—When you denounced the conduct of the police and the shootings into windows did you also denounce the assassination of Constable Finnegan? I believe that the resolution I proposed covered all the shootings in the town.

Did you denounce his murder by name? No; but I called for an inquiry into all the shootings in the town. On the same night there were fourteen of us at a meeting when the police broke into the room, and butted us with rifles, and smashed up the place. Some of the Committee had their shirts even torn off them. We were attacked in a most barbarous fashion, and it was providential that fourteen of us were not in the cemetery.

Why did you not take the notice you received on the 24th January to either the County Inspector or District Inspector Golden? Four days after I received the notice the police came to the bakery, and I showed the notice to them.

In reply to further questions, witness stated that when District Inspector Golden visited his house after the shooting he told him that he saw two tall policemen in policemen's capes and caps outside the house in the street on the night of the shooting.

Mr. Babington—On your oath, did you tell him one word about two men having policemen's capes and caps? I told him he would get no information beyond that. He asked me if I could identify the men, and I said I could give a good guess.

WITNESS AND A MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

William McCarthy, examined by Mr. Skinner, corroborated his brother's evidence. He said—At the time of the knocking and the reports of shots I heard the dog barking in the backyard. It was unusual barking, and the dog was becoming ferocious.

Did that give you any idea? Certainly. I knew that there were people in the backyard, and the next morning I visited the yard and examined the gate into the garden. I found that someone had been trying to tear it down. I also found footprints. They were quite fresh footprints. They came as far as the garden gate, but not into the yard.

You were arrested in 1918 for being a Volunteer? Yes. I got two months' imprisonment. It was well known by the Constabulary that I was a Sinn Feiner and a Volunteer.

Over that I suppose they had no great love for you? I don't think they had. I am 22 years of age, and have been all my life in Thurles, where I am well known, and my brothers likewise.

If any member of the community in Thurles went to do this dastardly deed would there be any necessity to ask any of your names? No, not at all.

Have you formed any opinion as to whether a mistake was made by assassins that night? Oh, certainly they made a mistake. In my opinion Michael McCarthy was to have been the victim. I attribute that to his having demanded an inquiry into the sacking of the town, and to his further demanding the names of the police who were engaged in the sack of the town.

The inquest was adjourned until eleven o'clock to-morrow (Tuesday) morning.

THE AMERICAN RAILWAY STRIKE.

Upon assurances from the White House, says a Reuter's Washington telegram, that the Railroad Labour Board would be appointed immediately, Mr. Cummins, Chairman of the Senate Inter-State Committee, announced that there would be no investigation into the railroad strike by the Committee at present. It is the view of Mr. Cummins that, if the Board were appointed immediately, with the assurance that the grievances of the men would be heard, the strike would be ended. The disturbance, he said, was nothing more than a protest because the de- [illegible] not been put [illegible]

THE STRIKE POLICY.

APPEAL TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

The Lord Mayor (Alderman L. O'Neill) presided at a meeting of the Dublin Municipal Council yesterday.

When the minutes of the previous two meetings were confirmed, and before the agenda was touched,

Mr. Forrestal rose and said they had met that day under the shadow of an impending tragedy. In Mountjoy Prison there were 104 citizens of the Irish nation who were being slowly done to death. In circumstances of this kind it was extremely difficult for the members of the Council to direct their attention to the ordinary affairs set forth in the agenda. He thought that in justice, and out of respect to the men who were suffering tortures in prison that day—it might be that some of those men are dying—the Council could not do better than adjourn for a week. There were present some of the parents of the young men who were suffering in Mountjoy Jail, and out of respect to the relatives the Council would do well to adjourn. With that purpose he moved the adjournment as a protest against the continued ill-treatment of the prisoners, arising out of a breach of agreement arrived at between Mr. Duke, the then Chief Secretary, and the Lord Mayor, and at a later date a further agreement come to between Dr. McRory, Bishop of Down and Connor, and the Lord Mayor of Dublin and Mr. Shortt.

Mr. Flanagan seconded the motion.

Mr. P. T. Daly said that he wished to be associated with the resolution; but he would go a little further. An adjournment of the meeting would merely show sympathy, but he asked the Council to endorse the action of the National Labour Party and the Trades Union Congress in calling a general strike for Tuesday, April 13th. The earliest opportunity should be taken of proving to the British Government that the whole of the working classes of the country were behind them in the protest. (Applause).

Mr. Farren seconded the motion in favour of a general strike.

Dr. McWalter said that he and the small party associated with him would not oppose the motion for adjournment, as it was a motion of humanity, but he hoped Mr. Daly would not press his motion, as he (Dr. McWalter) and his party would have to vote against it. At any rate it could only come as an amendment.

After some conversation Mr. Daly agreed that his motion should form an addendum to the original resolution, and Mr. Forrestal consented to accept it.

Dr. McWalter said that they would be bound to divide on the question of the addendum.

"We will conquer," remarked Mr. Daly.

Dr. McWalter—You will conquer, of course. The reason he found it necessary to oppose the addendum was because the only persons who would suffer from the strike were the poor, and it would not do the Government a bit of harm. The first resolution was one of humanity, and there was no one but must feel for men who were starving themselves to death for a principle, and there was no one that would not call for alleviation and mercy. But when they asked other people to starve, as they would do by calling for a general strike, he thought that men with a sense of responsibility ought to halt. If there was a strike to-morrow the only persons who would suffer were the persons with least money. Was it to be suggested that they were to starve children who could not get milk? There were 60,000 children in Dublin who would be deprived of bread and milk.

Mr. Daly, interposing, said these were the two services excluded from the strike.

Dr. McWalter protested against the poor being starved to make a demonstration. "If you are in earnest," he added, "call for a hunger strike of all the adults in Ireland. I don't think you would get it." No soldier in Ireland would lose an ounce of his ration on account of this, but millions of poor children would be inconvenienced.

Mr. Daly—They are taking care we would not have millions of children.

Dr. McWalter—It is senseless to starve your own flesh and blood. Merrion square or the fashionable people won't be hungry, but the poor will.

Sir A. Beattie said that that at a meeting of the Visiting Justices he moved a resolution that the prisoners be given ameliorative treatment, and he did it because he had great sympathy with them. The motion now moved by Mr. Forrestal was right from the humanitarian point of view, and he would not oppose it; but he could not support Mr. Daly's addendum, because, if carried, it would impose starvation upon the children of the poor, whom Mr. Daly represented. He appealed to the Council as sensible men not to turn the proceedings into a farce. They ought not to turn the working people out of their work even for a single day.

Mr. Farren—It will be only one day's strike.

Sir A. Beattie said he was glad to hear that; but even that would disorganise many trades and businesses for a week. The loss would fall upon the ratepayers of the city, and that should be avoided.

Mr. Farren—I suggest that as a further protest Sir Andrew should resign his J.P.-ship.

Alderman Clark objected to the addendum. The Council had no right to legislate for trades unionism. He suggested that the addendum should be withdrawn, and he would not object to the orginal motion, because he thought that it was unjust to keep men in prison without charge or trial. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Stritch supported the attitude taken up by Sir Andrew Beattie, Alderman Clark, and Dr. McWalter. He held that the agreement entered into between the Government and the Lord Mayor, and the Bishop of Down and Connor ought to be adhered to. (Hear, hear.) Whatever sympathy there was with the prisoners would be alienated if a general strike were to be declared.

Mr. M. J. Moran, supporting the resolution and the addendum, said that first of all it should be borne in mind that the prisoners were very young men, most of them under nineteen years of age, and that they were fighting for a principle. Everyone must have great admiration for their will power, under extraordinary circumstances, whether their hunger strike was foolish or otherwise. The Government had come to an agreement with the Lord Mayor and Dr. McRory that these prisoners should receive political treatment. Instead of that they had been treated as criminals, and as a protest against their treatment they had gone on strike. If the Council by drawing the attention of the public to the treatment of the prisoners were the means of bringing them relief it was the duty of the Council to do it. (Hear, hear.)

Alderman Staines supported the motion.

Alderman Alfred Byrne said that he thought the days of passing resolutions without drastic action were gone. He hoped that something more than a strike would take place to bring home to Dublin Castle its responsibility in the matter. He appealed to the members of the Council who were opposing the addendum to the resolution to withdraw their opposition.

Mr. G. Lyons said they could promise for thousands who would show the Government that the representatives of the working classes were ready to demonstrate that they were prepared to endure suffering.

Mr. Kennedy said it was all nonsense to talk about starvation as a result of the general strike. No matter what the opinion of the Corporation might be, the workers were determined to protest against the brutal treatment of the men in Mountjoy.

Dr. McWalter, at this stage, while reiterating that a general strike would only inconvenience the poor and do the Government no harm, said that if the members of the Council felt that by opposing the amendment they would lessen the force of the protest against the treatment of fellow-Irishmen, then, with the permission of his friends, he would withdraw the opposition. (Applause.)

LORD MAYOR'S ATTITUDE.

The Lord Mayor, in putting the resolution, said that he was pleased at the turn events had taken. He could hardly conceive that any of his colleagues could be so hard-hearted as to oppose any legitimate means that might be adopted for lessening the pain of the fathers and mothers of those who were suffering. The tragedy of Thomas Ashe would be nothing in significance as compared with what was likely to happen in this country if a similar tragedy took place now. In his humble judgment, and he said it with all the responsibility of his office and all the perils which it might mean, that the attempt of the authorities to break through the agreement mentioned in the motion was the principal cause of most of the trouble which existed in the country to-day. He had seen men for ten days with their hands tied behind their backs and having actually to eat their food off the floor like dogs. His lordship mentioned the agreement with reference to the treatment of political prisoners come to in the Chief Secretary's Lodge, the conditions of which were ratified and adhered to for more than six months. An attempt was made by the understrappers of Dublin Castle to break the arrangement made by the Prime Minister, but they were brought to their knees by a letter from the Prime Minister. Again an attempt was made in Belfast to break through the agreement, and Mr. Shortt, who was then Chief Secretary, said that an honourable agreement was given by his predecessor, and he would see that it was carried out, and political treatment was granted to the prisoners. Later another agreement was made, and Mr. Macpherson got orders from the Cabinet that the agreement was to be carried out, and the prisoners last October again gained their point, as the men would gain their point to-day. Then the gentlemen in Dublin Castle set about breaking up the agreement, and brought in a rule that no Mayors were to be allowed into the prison as Visiting Justices. "Do these men in authority," he asked, "think that they are going to let our countrymen die?" With all these protests that were being made, he was satisfied, and he would give hope to the fathers and mothers and wives of these men, that Providence never ordained that these men were to be cruelly murdered in Mountjoy; that a gleam of reason would take possession of the monsters who were ruling the destinies of this country, and that, if the prisoners did not get political treatment, he had great hopes that they would be released. (Applause.)

The resolution, as amended, was passed nem. con.

APPEAL TO CONSULS.

Mr. C. Andrews (Terenure), father of one of the prisoners, returned thanks to the Council on behalf of the other relatives who were present in the Council Chamber.

Mrs. Wyse Power said that the immediate relatives of the prisoners had drawn up a statement which they intended to present to the Consuls in Dublin representing the different States in Europe and the United States. She asked that a deputation from the Council be appointed to accompany the relatives to the several Consulates.

Alderman O'Reilly—The American Consul was represented by his Secretary in the crowd that was outside Mountjoy Jail on Sunday night.

The Lord Mayor, the High Sheriff (Dr. McWalter), Alderman Mrs. Clarke, and Councillors Hynes, Forrestal, and P. T. Daly were nominated as the deputation.

The following is a copy of the statement above referred to, which was signed on behalf of the relatives by Mrs. Humphries, John Leddy, Mrs. Gerald Crofts, and Mr. C. Andrews:—

We represent the fathers and mothers of the 104 political prisoners now lying in the agony of death in Mountjoy Jail. We draw the attention of your nation to the unparalleled brutality with which our sons are being treated because of their political faith. No civilised nation maltreats her political prisoners as England does. Refused the rights of citizenship, and herded among common criminals, the Irish political prisoners have protested time after time. Humanity has been shocked at the suffering and woe which accompanied such protests. But now a crisis has been reached. Over one hundred of our sons are being done to death by a painful process. In honour these men may not take their food under present conditions. Humanity will be again outraged if a hundred prisoners die. Parents throughout the world will join in our sorrow. The crime will be branded as unforgivable. But such sympathy will come too late. One hundred are dying. Some may now be dead. England is responsible. We parents appeal to humanity through your nation.

"BRITISH" GOVERNMENT AND "IRISH" FREEDOM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The chief characteristic of the politician that has sprung up in Ireland since the war is his taste for phrases that convey no meaning to his own mind. To ask a "Republican" what he means by a Republic is a shock that will provoke him to bad humour. But there is no necessity to ask him what he means by the "British" Government: he never means what he says.

There exist in the country two distinct organisations that are generally confused in sloppy-minded reference to "the Government"; but, as one is truly British and the other is truly Irish, an educated thinker keeps them apart. The political "Government" of a country is, popularly speaking, the organisation that makes laws, imposes universal taxes, regulates international relations and international trade, has the power of patronage in the higher administrative offices, and exercises the residuum of discretion in public action which is inevitable in human affairs. In Ireland this organisation is wholly British. There has been carried on from generation to generation scheme after scheme to substitute for this state of affairs a Government either wholly Irish or at least effectively Irish, but the events of the last four years leave the "British" Government in the functions that I have noted more powerful and more deeply rooted than ever before.

In every Christian nation there must exist an organisation that may be referred to as the Civil Power. It is "government" in the sense that it controls the conduct of the community. It is essentially national. It is, in fact, the cohesive bond that holds together the people in their nationhood. Its dissolution involves the relapse of the community into savagery. The function of this Power is to teach and to make effective the obligations of patriotism by instruction in the duties of citizenship and enforcement of their discharge. Teaching comes first, and the most powerful element of this "Government" is, and must always be, the Church, with its great mission of moral instruction. The peace and liberty of the people depend upon the effect of the teaching of their pastors. An apostle is a more powerful protector against crime and slavery than a hundred policemen, though each is engaged in essentially the same work—the establishment of true liberty. Next to the clergy come the professors of profane learning. Their utility in the sphere of government depends upon the degree in which they succeed in imparting to their instruction the moral quality that distinguishes intelligence from cunning. How far Ireland has yet been served by this body is hard to tell.

Notwithstanding all teaching, there must inevitably exist in a human colony a number of persons who, from vice or ignorance, will not comply with the rules that are binding on all. To protect humble people from bullies, and property from thieves, the moral precepts of the Civil Power must be enforced by police, magistrates, judges, witnesses, jurors, and jailers. These are the "Government" in the same sense that the ministers of religion are the "Government." In Ireland all these classes are Irish: the men who discharge these functions are Irish, and the people they serve are the Irish people. No matter what changes may occur in the political "Government," whether it become a "Republic" (whatever that may mean) or an Autocracy or a Confederacy, or anything else, the Civil Power must be maintained or the nation must perish. If the lay organisation for maintaining public law is dependent for its effect upon the influence of religion, the continuance of religious life is also dependent upon the sanctity of the co-ordinate elements of the Civil Power, and, recognising this, the Church casts out and excommunicates all those, by whatever name they call themselves, who league together to attack either of these foundations of social existence—see the new canon.

With the ignorant babble about "British" government there is propagated the falsehood that the organisation for maintaining peace and order and for administering public justice by public tribunals is a machine dominated by "British" law. This falsehood is a very useful thing for the criminal classes, but no educated person can be deceived by it. The law that binds every Irish Catholic, as a matter of faith and conscience, to respect the Civil Power and to aid it in its functions, is the law that Ireland accepted and adopted as her own when she received the mission of Saint Patrick. In assisting the courts and the police to prevent and to punish crime an Irishman is obeying Irish law ordained for the protection of the freedom of the Irish people. The "war" that crime has been waging in the country for the past few years has been a "war," not on British government, but on the Irish Civil Power. Its victims have been brave and true Irishmen, engaged in the protection of the rights and liberties of the humble people of the land. No person having the smallest share in the "British" government of Ireland has been injured. The "patriotic" robbery that has been practised has been robbery of poor Irish people, who also have to suffer for the destruction of property, while no effort has been made by the self-constituted champions of Ireland to mitigate or alter the laws that do infringe upon the liberty of the people. The Civil Power is the only true protection of the people against oppression. The police do not make laws, nor do the courts. They serve the people best by inflexibly administering the law as it is made by the legislative authority, be that law good or bad. A society that permits the administrator to make his own law abandons freedom. Certainty of the action of the organisation for the enforcement of every law is the best guarantee of the equality of all men in its protection.

Once, however, the Civil Power is crippled by the murder of policemen, the terrorising of witnesses and jurors, and the cowardly refusal of the community to punish malefactors, the "British" Government is enormously strengthened. The Legislature ignores the Civil Power, and entrusts the Executive with the tyrannical authority of administering its own law. So far as it is used at all, the Civil Power and its officers must co-operate, as legally bound. Bad as this is, it is the best that can be done under the circumstances. The cure for it must be the restoration of the Irish and Christian law that commands respect for authority. At present the whole organisation is treated with contempt. The attack upon ecclesiastical authority is assisted by lack of co-operation between the lay and the clerical officers of the Civil Power. They treat one another as strangers, and thus enable anarchy and crime to take root between them.

The country needs a rest from hysterical abuse of "British" government and "British" law. It needs a course of instruction in the necessity of upholding Irish government by enforcing Irish law in spite of the attacks of enemies of faith and nationhood. If we are ever to hope for the realisation of the national demand for political liberty, we must redeem our youth from the doctrines of crime and slavery that urge our boys to dishonour Ireland in order to spite the "British" Government.—Yours, etc.,

"CHRISTIANITY."

PARLIAMENT.

OVERSEAS TRADE.

ASSISTING DISABLED STATES.

FINANCIAL RESOLUTION PASSED.

In the House of Commons yesterday, the Speaker took the chair at 2.45 p.m.

The House went into Committee on a resolution authorising the granting of credits and the undertaking of insurances for the purpose of re-establishing overseas trade up to an amount not exceeding, at any time, twenty-six million pounds, and payment of any expenses incurred by the Board of Trade in connection therewith.

Mr. G. Locker-Lampson moved a reduction of the amount to be authorised, for the purpose, as he explained, of endeavouring to elicit some information as to the manner in which the Board of Trade intended to work this scheme, which he feared would result in a loss to the State.

Sir Donald Maclean said that, as he understood it, the proposal was to enable certain specified areas of Europe, which were now utterly incapable of getting themselves going commercially once again, to resume their commercial existence. There was a great deal to be said for it, but he objected to so large a sum of money being involved.

For technical reasons Mr. G. Locker-Lampson withdrew his amendment, and Sir Donald Maclean moved to reduce the amount in question to ten millions.

Lord Robert Cecil said that he hoped that the amendment would not be persisted in. He urged that something ought to be done in order to induce more reasonable behaviour on the part of some of the smaller States. It was perfectly fantastic to think of helping financially States which were throwing their money into the sea on warlike preparations which had not the slightest foundation in good sense or good policy. The Government should also insist on the breaking down of the tariff barriers which some of these States were erecting. It was really insane. They were cutting their own throats pretty quickly, and if somebody could snatch the knife out of their hands, by means of this scheme, or in any other way, it would be a most desirable thing to do.

Sir John Butcher supported the scheme.

Mr. Myers opposed the resolution, because, he said, some members who were supporting it had stated that they wanted to take advantage of cheap labour on the Continent.

Mr. Bridgeman said that he had already given some information as to the scheme. The conditions under which advances would be made were such as to secure that, as far as possible, there would be no loss on the transaction. They had been published in the Board of Trade Journal. The advances would be made to British sellers in this country, and they would pay a commission to a department of the Board of Trade. The United States had also set aside 1,000 million dollars for the same purpose, namely, helping countries which had been crushed commercially by the war. The arrangement would come to an end in six years' time. He thought that they were not asking for an excessive sum for the purpose. Grants would only be made after the most careful enquiry.

Mr. George Roberts said that the scheme was really designed for the benefit of the shattered countries of Europe. It was not a British, but an Allied proposal. It originated with the Supreme Economic Council.

After further discussion the Government's resolution was adopted.

OTHER BILLS.

The Public Utility Companies (Capital Issues) Bill, as amended in Committee, was considered and passed the Report stage.

The Army and Air Force (Annual) Bill was read a second time.

NEW WRIT FOR SUNDERLAND.

On the motion of Captain Guest, a new writ was ordered for the election of a member for Sunderland, in the room of Sir Hamar Greenwood, who had accepted the post of Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

BACON AND CONTROL.

Mr. Parker, replying to Mr. Clough, said that it was not the present intention of the Government to decontrol imported bacon. Home-grown pigs and pig products were decontrolled from March 31st.

THE ANTI-DUMPING BILL.

Mr. Bonar Law informed Mr. Terrell that he did not expect to be able to give a definite answer as to the date of the introduction of the Anti-Dumping Bill before Whitsun.

SOVIET RUSSIA AND POLAND.

Lieut.-Commander Kenworthy asked what progress had been made in the peace negotiations between Poland and Soviet Russia, and whether His Majesty's Government was represented at these negotiations.

Mr. Bonar Law said that according to the latest information, the place and date of the proposed negotiations had not been finally settled. The answer to the second part of the question was in the negative.

THE MINISTRY OF MUNITIONS.

Mr. Palmer asked whether the Cabinet had vetoed the scheme for merging the Ministry of Munitions into a permanent Ministry of Supply, and whether that could be taken as evidence of the determination of the Government ruthlessly to reduce unnecessary public departments, and to economise in public expenditure.

Mr. Bonar Law said that the Government had decided that the Ministry of Munitions should not continue beyond the period now provided for. The latter part of the question expressed the objects of the Government's decision.

THE EX-GERMAN AND TURKISH WARSHIPS.

Lieut.-Commander Viscount Curzon asked the Prime Minister where the ex-German and Turkish warships now were, and who were responsible for them, pending a final decision as to their fate.

Mr. Bonar Law—The Turkish warships interned at the Golden Horn are under Allied supervision. The first convoy of ex-German ships is at the Firth of Forth. The remainder of those to be surrendered are in German ports. Pending their being taken over by the countries to which they are allotted, Great Britain is responsible for German ships in British ports, and the German Government is responsible for those in German ports.

COST OF PRESS TELEGRAMS.

Commander Bellairs asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he proposed to take steps to make the charges on Press telegrams balance the loss of over £200,000 per annum now incurred.

Mr. Pike Pease, who replied, said that increased charges on Press telegrams came into force as recently as January 1st last, and it was not proposed to increase them further at present.

Commander Bellairs—Is the estimate of loss I have given correct, and is it the policy of the Government to subsidise millionaire proprietors of newspapers?

Mr. Pike Pease said that he thought that the inquiry should be addressed to the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The House rose at 9.35 p.m.

DISTRACTED TURKEY.

NATIONALIST MOVEMENT CONDEMNED.

A Constantinople telegram, dated Sunday, states:—The Government has issued a proclamation amplifying the recent Imperial decree, and stating that the Fatherland is in danger, the nation having, unknowingly and unwillingly, been dragged into the formidable war, in which it suffered enormous losses, ending in a complete defeat. The proclamation condemns the so-called Nationalist movement, which, it says, threatened to prolong the occupation of Anatolia, and announces that the Government, while preferring a solution without bloodshed, is resolved to punish those who act contrary to the Sheriat, the sacred law of the Moslems, the Turkish Empire, and the terms of the Imperial decree. The declaration announces that the Government will not tolerate disturbances between Moslems and non-Moslems, and declares that those responsible for such acts will be severely dealt with. Ansavour, the self-appointed Commander of the Forces operating against the Nationalist bands in the Bigha region, is preparing to march on Balikesser. The Nationalists are alarmed at the successes of Ansavour, and are withdrawing some of their forces from the Greek front and the Smyrna hinterland and concentrating against Ansavour's men, who are described as Muhemeich forces. Although the population is in no danger, nevertheless many persons are migrating towards the Straits and the Dardanelles. For the first time in the history of Constantinople there was no pistol-firing by Greeks at the Easter celebration to-day. This is, doubtless, the result of Sir Henry Wilson's recent vigorous proclamation forbidding the carrying and the use of firearms in the streets. The Greek Easter procession this morning was largely attended compared with former years, and passed off in an orderly manner without any incident.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE SECONDARY TEACHERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—There is no class of the community which does not recognise the value of our work and admit that we are scandalously under-paid. But, in spite of all the sympathy that has been lavished on us, and in spite of all the promises that have been made, the average salary of secondary teachers in Ireland has not increased by 30% since 1914, although the cost of living has gone up by 140%. To-day the average salary of a secondary teacher does not reach three pounds per week. So much for sympathy.

In spite of all the discussion that has centred round this matter for the last two years, do the public realise the financial position of teachers? The proposed Education Bill for Ireland, to which teachers look forward as their charter of freedom, proposes a minimum salary of £160, with annual increments that will raise the salary to £410 at the end of twenty years' service.

By the recent award a bank official has a salary of £540 at the end of twenty years' service. A bank official will start normally with a salary of £120 at eighteen years of age; at twenty-two he will have a salary of £168, and at twenty-eight he will have a salary of £270. Normally a teacher will enter college at eighteen and spend three or four years in preparing for his profession at a cost of £120 a year. He will start at twenty-two with a salary of £160, and at twenty-eight he will have a salary of £220. Even then, if the financial provisions of the bill were put into operation immediately, it is evident that there would be very little inducement for men of ability to enter the teaching profession.

Of course the present state of affairs is immeasurably worse. The average salary does not reach the minimum proposed by the bill. The teaching profession in Ireland is being denuded of its best members. All those who can do so are going to England or Scotland, or are entering other professions. Unless some improvement is made immediately there will be a sweeping exodus at the end of the present school year.—Yours etc.,

"TEACHER."

Dublin, April 12th, 1920.

RESTRICTION OF RENTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—There will be general agreement with the suggested amendments of the Rent Acts as outlined in your article in your issue of Friday. It would be only just that landlords, having regard to their increased burdens for maintenance of their property and for increased taxation, should be entitled to make a fair increase in the rents of their tenants. The existing law is doubly unfair, inasmuch as it restricts the owners of small property only, leaving those who own property of a higher value than £52 a year a free hand to bleed their tenants white. There will be profound disappointment if the amending measure, shortly to be presented to Parliament, does not apply to all residential houses, without any limitation as to the amount of the rent. As the law now stands, the tenant whose rent is within the £52 a year limit is adequately protected—his landlord is, in fact, penalised for his benefit—but the tenant whose rent is higher than the limit of protection fixed by the Acts is the victim of the most shameless "profiteering."

Allow me to give the facts of a case in which I have a personal interest. The house was taken by the tenant in the year 1915 for a term of six years, at a rent of £84 a year, the landlord paying taxes. That this rent was the full letting value of the house will be apparent from the fact that the house was "to let" for fully a year previously to this letting. The owner has recently been applied to by the tenant to know if he would be prepared to discuss the terms of a new letting. The owner's reply is that he will not re-let, but will sell; and, asked for his terms of sale, his reply is that he is prepared to give the tenant an under-lease of the house for a rent of £20 a year and a purchase money of £1,950. The owner's agent had previously informed the tenant that the terms of purchase to the tenant "would be much more favourable than would be given to a stranger."

Taking the present value of money at the current rate of 6½ per cent., £1,950 represents £126 15s. per annum, which, with the proposed rent of £20 a year, would give the owner an income of £146 15s. a year on the sale. On the letting value of the house, as fixed by the owner in the year 1915, the return he was satisfied with was £84, less taxes—then about £22, and now about £32—and less also the annual costs of repairs and upkeep (say £10 a year) and insurance. In other words, the owner's average annual profit rent out of the house on the rent fixed by him in 1915 would not exceed £45 a year, and this makes no allowance for depreciation. Taking exactly the same figures as a basis of calculation, the house, if purchased on these terms, would cost the purchasing tenant from £195 to £200 a year.—Yours, etc.,

MOTOR TAXES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As your journal is always the advocate of fair play to all classes, and has already shown the hardships which the proposed increase in the motor tax would inflict in many cases, I venture to put mine before you. I live in a very poor and remote district in a Southern county, being nine miles from the nearest market town and thirteen from the nearest railway. I have a motor car—which I use only in procuring a weekly supply of provisions, going to my place of worship on Sundays, five miles away, and an odd time to the railway station—on which there is at present a tax of £6 6s. per annum. If the new proposed scale of increases is carried out, my tax will be £26, which, circumstanced as I am, I cannot afford to pay, my income being a limited and unincreasing one.

I cannot keep a horse and car or trap of any kind, as fodder is unprocurable in the district. Formerly, when I did keep one, I had to get such necessary supplies from Cork. My car cannot be designated a pleasure one, as I never use it as such. I could not afford it even if I wished, the car being kept on the strictest lines of economy and only used as I have above stated. If this increased tax is imposed, there will be nothing left for me but to sell my place and all belongings and become a wanderer in my old age.—Yours, etc.,

THE DUBLIN BOY SCOUTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Right Hon. Lord HolmPatrick, D.S.O., M.C., Commissioner for the City and County of Dublin, has requested me, as Chairman of the Executive Committee, to express its thanks to the Irish Times for so fully reporting the public meetings and demonstrations which have been held under its auspices from time to time. The report of the Scout Rally at Ballsbridge on Saturday, in preparation for the forthcoming "Jamboree" in London, in which over 200 Dublin Scouts will take part, is not quite as correct and complete as usual, and, with your kind permission, I would like to make some necessary amendments.

The presence of Lord Powerscourt, Provincial Commissioner, and of Lord HolmPatrick, District Commissioner, who were officially at the head of the demonstration, has been overlooked. Lord Powerscourt's important address to the assemblage in the afternoon has also been omitted. Needless to say, the members of the Executive Committee, in so far as they could, attended and took a lively interest in the proceedings. Lord Powerscourt emphasised the chief object of the display, which was to help towards the expenses of sending the Southern Irish representative Scouts to the "Jamboree" in London next July. A sum of £1,000 would be required to do this, and Lord Powerscourt fully explained the benefit to the Scout movement in Ireland of this enterprise, and expressed the hope that outside friends would support the effort to send the boys across. He also read two interesting letters in cordial sympathy with the scheme, one from the Chief Scout, Sir Robert Baden Powell, and the other from His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, regretting his inability to attend, and warmly approving of the objects of the Association and the benefit to the future of Ireland of the principles and instruction afforded by the Scout movement.

May I add that it is incorrect to say, as your reporter stated, of Captain F. J. Romanes, that he is "at the head of the Dublin Scouts' organisation"? The Executive Committee appointed Captain Romanes on the Sub-Committee having to deal with the organisation of the Ballsbridge display, and he performed his duties as capably and successfully as he always does in these public functions.—Yours etc.,

A. FRANCIS DIXON,
Chairman, Executive Committee.

DUBLIN STOCK EXCHANGE.

INESS LIGHT. FUNDS, GUINNESS, AND IMPERIAL TOBACCOS BETTER. RAILS, DUNLOPS, AND OILS LOWER.

was very little life and cheerfulness about the markets for local securities yesterday, and the irregular price movements were of no great interest even if the majority lacked encouragement to holders. The Funds had a general advance on pretty general local and outside support. Banks and Breweries were steady, with Guinness in the latter section better. Marconis were better about ¼. Home Rails were flat. Dunlop Rubber further relapsed. Textiles in most cases eased further. Imperial Tobacco rose sharply, and had a better tone, but Oil shares were often without support and failed to quote.

The Funds were good. Consols rose ¼, War Loan 5 p.c. ⅛ to 1/16, Funding ¼, Irish Land 3 p.c. ⅛, and India 3½ p.c. 1.

The only change in Banks was a fall of ⅛ to 5⅛ in Hibernians for an odd lot. Others quoted show a steady market.

In Breweries, etc., Guinness closed ½ better at 35, and the Pref. realised par. Dublin Distillers eased 6d. to 55s.

Home Rails displayed fresh weakness. "Wicklow" Stock though quoted 2½ lower at 18¼, was in reality ¼ better than latest closing figure. Great Northern fell ½, and Midland Great Western 1. West Clare 4 p.c. £10 Baronial fell to [illegible].

Dunlops still on offer in connection with coming issue. Dunlop Rubber Ord. gave way 1/16 to 2½, and Parent Tyre Pref. 1½d. to 14s. 1½d.

Among Manufacturing shares, Bleachers opened 6d. better at 53s. 9d., but later fell to 53. Calicos eased 1s. 6d. to 42s., Coats 9d. to 63s. 3d., and Spinners 3s 6d. to 5¼. British-American Tobacco fell 1/16 to 4 11/16, but Imperial Tobacco Ord. rose 2s. 3d. to 50s., and the "Letters" 2s. 6d. to 8s., 7s. 9d., 8s. 6d.

In Miscellaneous, etc., shares Irish Times Pref. fell 1s. 6d. to 67s. 6d. Hibernian Fire 4s. paid fetched par for an odd lot.

DULL STOCKS.

PRICES RECEDING.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Conditions in the Stock Exchange were dull. Business was on a small scale, and there was little indication of recovery. The various influences which have tended to depress markets of late are still in force, though the strain in the relations between the Allies over the Franco-German affair appears to have undergone slight modification. But talk about a probable early advance in the Bank rate persists, and in some quarters fears are entertained regarding the surprises the Chancellor of the Exchequer may have in store in the shape of fresh taxation proposals when he introduces the Budget next Monday.

LONDON STOCKS DECLINE.

EARLY IMPROVEMENT LOST.

The Stock Exchange started the week with a better appearance under the lead of gilt-edged securities, which appeared to be in receipt of inside support to offset Budget unsettlement. There was a moderate accumulation of supporting orders over the week-end. After these had been executed, however, less favourable conditions developed, and, after a period of hesitancy, several departments developed pronounced heaviness during the final hour on further Continental selling, precipitated by a further break in the value of the franc. South African Mines, Oil Shares, and the Foreign Market were specially flat, but the fall was often out of proportion to the actual volume of selling recorded. Government Securities held their improvement to the finish. There was not much movement in Colonial Loans, but a few Queensland issues added ⅛.

Changes:—Rises—Consols, ¼ to 46¼; Funding Loan, ¼ to 68½; Victory Bonds, ¼ to 76¼; 5 p.c. War Loan, ⅛ to 88 1/16; India 3½ p.c., ¼ to 57¼.

FRENCH BONDS DOWN.—In the Foreign Market the fall in French Loans was not so severe as might have been expected from the pronounced adverse movement in the Paris cheque exchange. The Fives, however, lost 1 at 44½, and the Fours were about a point weaker. Belgian Threes were lowered a point to 46. Argentine and Brazilian Loans, though lacking in firmness, were rarely lower to quote.

Changes:—Rise—Chinese 4½ p.c., 1 to 58. Falls—French Loan, 1 to 44½; Peruvian Corporation, ½ to 6.

HOME RAILS LOWER.—Home Rails enjoyed a fairly hard tone during the first part of the session, the moderate improvement in gilt-edged descriptions reacting helpfully upon the tone. In the afternoon, however, quotations became weaker with most other sections of the "house," and net changes were adverse.

Changes:—Falls—Caledonian Def., ¼ to 9¼; Chatham, ¼ to 9½; Lancashire and Yorkshire, ½ to 60; North British Def., ¼ to 14¼; South Eastern Def., ½ to 32½.

CANADIANS AND MEXICANS DULL.—Canadian Pacifics were marked back a dollar on balance to 152. Grand Trunks seesawed, but were about unchanged on balance. Argentine Rails were often higher by ½ at midday, but turned irregular, and closed with mixed changes of that extent. Mexican Rails weakened a point all round. Leopoldinas fell ½ to 43½.

Changes:—Rises—B.A. Great Southern, ½ to 80; B.A. Pacific, ½ to 68; B.A. Western, ½ to 80 x.d. Falls—Canadian Pacific, 1 to 152; Mexican 8 p.c. Pref., ½ to 46½; United Havana, ½ to 87½.

LIVELY SPECIALITIES IN INDUSTRIAL SECTION.

SHARP RISE IN "IMPERIALS."

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Interest in the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday centred chiefly on a few lively features. Generally speaking, the market was depressed. Some excitement prevailed in the Iron and Steel group on a dramatic revival in Gloucester Wagons. Rumours of amalgamation were circulated anew. Last time Baldwins was the supposed party to deal, but events disproved the rumour. Birmingham appears to be well informed on this occasion. The price there yesterday was rushed up against London buyers. Elsewhere in the Iron and Steel group Low Moor came into favour, advancing appreciably during the day. Oil Cakes opened easier yesterday, but buyers came forward at the reduced figure, and by the close the shares showed very little change on balance. Imperial Tobaccos were in strong request. The Letters rose in sympathy. In other sections of the market the general dulness was lit up in places by specialities, but the speculative favourites were flat. Shipping Shares were frankly despondent, with a further drop in P. and O. Def., and Royal Mails weak.

Gloucester Wagons rose to 80s., which represented a net rise of 10s. Northumberland Shipbuilding Pref. hardened to 21s. 6d. ex rights. Baldwins shed ½ at 4¼. A reaction in Marconis was not surprising on profit taking. The group was mostly easier, though the New were better at ¼ premium. Marconis at 3½ were ⅛ down. The Pref. lost ⅛ at 3⅛. Canadians shed 6d. at 12s. 6d. The Textile collection suffered from lack of support. Business was small in proportion. Courtaulds declined ⅛ to 8¼. Amalgamated Cottons flattened out to 2 ex all. Dyers eased 1/16 to 2⅛. Calicos shed 1s. at 41s. 6d., and Coats were easier at 3¼. Cottons fell back to 2⅛. Spinners were in the dumps at 5, or [illegible] down. Firm spots were Bleachers at 53s. 6d., Joshua Hoyle at 4⅞, and John Woods at 27s. Elsewhere business was negligible. Among miscellaneous descriptions Dunlops were lower still at 10.

SLUMP IN MINES.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

A rise of 10d. to £5 3s. 5d. per ounce in the price of gold failed to arrest the downward movement in South African Mines, and modest buying by shrewd operators for the long shot was simply swamped. The close was distinctly dull and dealers separated in anything but a cheerful frame of mind. It is, perhaps, invidious to particularise, but with Modderfonteins lower by 10s., Central Mining 7s. 6d., Rand Mines 6s. 3d., Randfontein 1s. 9d., Johannies 1s. 3d., and Union Corporation 1s., it is not to be wondered at that hardly a share in the active list escaped the marking down process. Relatively speaking, the Rhodesian section was steady, which simply means that the shrinkages were less pronounced than in the sister department. A sharp recovery of £12 15s. to £345 2s. 6d. per ton occurred in the price of tin, but this failed to cheer the share market.

ANOTHER FALL IN OILS.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Oil shares commenced the week in very poor fashion. The business which had accumulated over the week-end was not of a satisfactory character, for, while buying orders were few in numbers and for small lines of shares, instructions to sell ran into fairly large figures. Consequently soon after the opening prices began to droop, the decline becoming accentuated as the day progressed, and heaviness being almost general at the close, the losses in some cases being of substantial amount. As regards the leaders, Mexican Eagles suffered severely, sales from Paris, accompanied by local offering, causing a sharp fall in the price. Shells were also heavily sold from Paris in the early hours, and, although that centre showed a disposition to pick up the shares again in the afternoon, an appreciable decline was still recorded at the close of business. Royal Dutch maintained a fairly steady tone, but Burmahs were a heavy market, finishing only slightly above the worst point touched. As regards Trinidad issues, Centrals came on offer, and moved down sharply, and with them Leaseholds and United British weakened. In sympathy with the leaders, Ven. Oil Con., Anglo-Egyptian "B," and Lobitos moved down. Lower prices ruled for Russian descriptions. In other directions, Scottish-Americans developed an easier tendency, and Tankers Pref. also weakened, but firmness was maintained by Caltex. Closing prices:—

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

In the general dulness prevailing round the House Rubber shares continued their decline. Paris was a seller of her favourite Stocks. The list generally was lower on the day, but the principal falls were among the Continental group. Kuala Lumpur and Malaccas were both ⅛ down at 3⅛ and 4⅛ respectively. Semmah offered at 30s., Tamiangs at 50s., and Eastern Trust were no better than 29s. Rubber itself was firm around 2s. 3½d. Anglo-Dutch were dull at 51s. 10½d., and Bandar Sumatra lost 1/16 at 51s. 3d. There was considerable buying of Bukit Sembawang around 4s. Java Investment lost the turn at 42s. 6d., Java United were a shade easier at 42s., and Laggan Java were 1/16 down at 47s. 6d. There were sellers of Langkat Sumatra at 50s. Pilmoor eased ⅛ to 4 1/16, but Panawatte were firm, with business at 55s. Rubber Trust were 9d. down at 40s. 6d., and Sialang were ⅛ lower at 32s. 6d. Sungei Bahru were active around 39s., and Sungei Choh eased ⅛ to 6⅛. United Serdang were 4½d. lower at 13s. 7½d., and United Sua Betong were offered around 5⅜. The Borneo section was a little quieter, although quotations were firm. North Borneo State changed hands at 20s. 9d., and Kimanis were a shade firmer at 28s. 9d.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Cable advices from New York state that the firm of Blair and Company (Incorporated) has been organised to engage in the business of underwriting and dealing in investment securities, as successor to the banking house of Blair and Co. and William Salomon and Co. Blair and Co. was established in 1890, and has been identified with the financing of many important railroads in the United States and Canada, and of numerous industrial corporations. William Salomon and Co. was established in 1902, and has been one of the most active investment houses for both railroad and industrial financing. Mr. C. Ledyard Blair is chairman of the new company, and Mr. Elisha Walker president. The European representative on the board is Mr. Lewis P. Sheldon, of Salomon and Co., London.

The flatness of Kaffirs is associated not only with the rise in the franc, but also with that of the improvement in the American exchange. As the value of the pound becomes greater in relation to the dollar, so the price of gold automatically goes down. From being over £6 per ounce, gold has fallen to 103/- per ounce, a drop which makes, naturally, a substantial difference to the profits of the South African companies.

Allotment letters in connection with the recent issue of A.B.C. Motors (1920), Ltd., were posted on the 8th inst., and all applications for 2,000 shares and under have been allotted in full.

The transfer books of the Irish Times will be closed from the 14th to 28th April, both days included.

The annual meeting of Mason and Barry will be held at the Cannon street Hotel, London, on Monday, 26th April, at 2 o'clock. The transfer books will be closed from Wednesday, 14th April, to Wednesday, 5th May, both days inclusive.

A special meeting of the L.C.C. will be held today to consider a report of the Finance Committee on the issue of £7,000,000 London County 5½ per cent. Bonds, repayable in 1930, convertible into 5 per cent. London County Consolidated Stock, 1940-60. The Committee state that having considered the question how the Council's capital requirements of the current financial year should be met, and having regard to the general financial conditions, they had come to the conclusion after consultation with the Bank of England that it was desirable to issue a loan forthwith.

Commercial Bank of London New Shares were dealt in in London yesterday at 19/6 20/6.

Royal Dutch Capital.—A telegram dated The Hague, April 12th, says:—The Royal Dutch Petroleum Company to-day announces that, in view of the recent heavy expenditure entailed in increasing its fleet, and in extending its activities in different countries, it intends this year to increase its capital by making a further issue of shares at par.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed Nov. 6th)............ 6 p.c.

While renewals of call money were effected around 4 p.c., new loans were usually arranged at 3½ p.c., and balances often offered below 3 p.c. at the finish. Despite the unsettlement of the exchanges, there was a good demand for bills in the discount market, the banks being keen buyers of short paper. Supplies were only moderate. Very short paper was quoted at 4⅞ p.c., three months' at 5⅛ p.c., and six months' at 5⅞ p.c.

ALLEGED POCKET-PICKING.—In the Southern Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Cooper, K.C., John Cox, described as an ex-soldier, and Michael Kavanagh, were charged with picking pockets in College Green on Saturday morning. It was alleged that prisoners mixed with people getting on to tram cars, and the prisoner Cox was in possession of £2 for which he was unable to account, and a pair of lady's gloves, which he was seen to throw away. Kavanagh was charged with the illegal possession of £1 19/9, and a lady's pair of earrings in a box. Mr. J. W. Davis prosecuted and said there had been a number of complaints of picking pockets under similar circumstances on Saturday. Mr. James Brady appeared for Cox. Mr. Thomas Fullam identified the prisoners, as having been acting in a suspicious way at the tramcar. Constable 51 B, who arrested them, said that Kavanagh threw away a case with the earrings, which Kavanagh said he had bought for 2/6. Accused, who denied the charge, were remanded for inquiries.

ULSTER FARMERS' UNION.

ANNUAL MEETING OF COUNCIL.

At the annual meeting of the Council of the Ulster Farmers' Union, Major R. J. M'Cormack presiding, the annual report of the Executive Committee, which was submitted by the General Secretary (Mr. Thomas M'Dowell) stated:—

"Early in March the Department of Agriculture issued a circular, without previous consultation or warning, restricting the exports of potatoes for March to two-thirds of the January shipments. Your Executive immediately lodged a vigorous protest against this arbitrary dislocation of a most important trade. As a result of the action taken by your Executive a conference was immediately summoned by the Department, and the restrictions practically revoked for March, and afterwards freedom of export was obtained up till 30th April.

FLAX GRADING AND PRICES.

"The question of the flax crop has been the subject of lengthy discussion by your executive. The repeated and widespread complaints about the unjust standard of grading had their careful attention from time to time, and they were in correspondence regarding this matter with the Flax Supplies Committee, with the result that a marked improvement in the grading was obtained in recent months. Ultimately the Vice-President of the Department summoned a special conference to deal with the matter, and your Union was invited to send two delegates out of four, as representing the producers. The Executive Committee appointed Major M'Cormack and Mr. Robert Gregg."

After detailing the progress of the negotiations with the Spinners' Association, and the proposal made by the Spinners' Association, the report states that a meeting of the Executive Committee was immediately summoned for Monday, the 22nd March. Following a lengthy discussion the offer of the spinners was accepted by 20 votes to 5. Your Executive admit that the arrangement is not by any means an ideal one, but they could obtain no better at the present time. This would mean an increased price of 5s. 11d. per stone for the whole crop.

MARKETING OF FLAX.

The marketing of flax was the subject of lengthy consideration by a small committee, consisting of Messrs. Robert Gregg, Joseph Small, and John S. Weir, J.P. This committee was assisted in their deliberations by Messrs. J. W. Stewart and Faulkner D. Small, and unanimously decided upon reporting—"That we unreservedly condemn as being grossly unfair to the producers of flax the pre-war methods of marketing flax. We are unanimously opposed to the sale of any flax at the mills, and recommend that in future all flax be submitted for sale by auction at the local markets; the farmer to have the absolute right to withdraw his flax from sale should he consider the price offered unsatisfactory, and to have afterwards an unfettered and uncontrolled right to sell his flax wherever and to whomsoever he pleases, other than at scutch mills or stores of same."

The following officers were unanimously re-elected for the coming year:—President, Mr. David Johnston, J.P.; Vice-Presidents, Mr. James Ireland, J.P., and Mr. Thomas Hardy, J.P.; Chairman of Council, Major R. J. M'Cormack; Vice-Chairman of Council, Mr. Wm. R. Morrow; Deputy-Chairman of Council, Mr. A. J. Pilkington, J.P.

For one-third of the members of the Executive Committee, who retire annually according to rule, an election took place with the following result:—County Deputy Vice-Presidents:—Co. Armagh, Mr. Robert Lyons, Co.C.; Co. Cavan, Mr. John Smith, J.P., Ballyhaily House, Cootehill; Co. Donegal, Mr. Andrew Lowry, J.P.; Co. Fermanagh, Sir Basil Brooke, Bart. County Representatives—Co. Donegal, Mr. John S. Weir, J.P.; Co. Down, Mr. Robert Brown, J.P.; Co. Fermanagh, Mr. W. H. West; Co. Monaghan, Mr. Owen Hughes, J.P.

THE STEWART INSTITUTION.

AN APPEAL FOR PUBLIC SUPPORT.

The annual meeting of the Stewart Institute for the Education of Imbecile Children, Palmerston, Chapelizod, Co. Dublin, was held yesterday afternoon in the offices, Molesworth street, Dublin, Mr. J. W. Copland in the chair. The financial report showed that the expenses of the year amounted to £6,595 14/5, which left a deficiency of £924 2/11. In addition, a sum of £612 10/9 was lost on the working of the hospital for mental diseases. For many years this hospital had contributed very materially to the maintenance of the children. The total deficiency of £1,536 13/8 had been overdrawn from the bank.

The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the report, said that he hoped to see the deficiency wiped off during the ensuing year. If subscribers of the smaller amounts, such as half-a-guinea, would double their amounts, the finances of the institution would soon be placed on a firm basis. He said that he wished more subscribers and friends would visit the institute and see for themselves the surroundings in which this good work was carried on. He believed that this would induce more subscribers and larger subscriptions.

Mr. William Findlater seconded, and said that, although the accounts showed an adverse balance, he thought that officials should be congratulated on their good work. Having regard to the price of commodities to-day, it was really wonderful that the deficit had been kept so low. Everybody knew that they were living in abnormal times, and that their officials were faced with ever-increasing difficulties. He wished to associate himself with the desire that people should be induced to visit the institution at Palmerston. It would gain them many friends and more subscriptions.

The report was adopted, without discussion.

CLAIMS FOR STATE ASSISTANCE.

A special resolution in the following terms was moved by Mr. Lloyd Blood:—"That this institution commends itself to public sympathy in its work for larger help under existing circumstances." Mr. Lloyd Blood said that he found that the institution had been called upon to pay a considerable amount for income tax, a large portion of which had been claimed on account of arrears. He thought, however, that as this institution was actually performing a public service, and saving the Government the task of providing for these unfortunate people, the State should make a contribution, not claim a tax. Now, however, that their finances showed a deficit, he supposed they would have no tax to pay.

In seconding, the Rev. A. W. B. Mack, chaplain, also urged the need for a more practical interest in the institution. If more people could be persuaded to visit the buildings and grounds more financial help would be forthcoming, as friends would realise what a splendid work was being done.

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Mr. George P. Beater, C.E., moved a resolution thanking the county secretaries and their friends who worked so actively for the benefit of the institution during the preceding year.

The resolution was seconded by the Rev. A. W. B. Mack, and carried.

Dr. F. E. Rainsford gave an outline of the year's work in the institution, and spoke of the good health and longevity of the patients.

The Committee of the past year having been re-elected for the ensuing year, the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Mr. J. W. Copland for presiding.

THE TOWN TENANTS' LEAGUE.

"PROFITEERING" IN HOUSES.

A joint meeting of the Executive and Central Branch of the Town Tenants' League was held on Thursday evening last at the Executive offices, 43 Rutland square, Dublin, Mr. Edward Cunningham presided. There was a large attendance of members and tenants from various parts of Dublin City and County in reference to rent raising, threatened eviction, and the purchasing of houses over the heads of occupying tenants. Correspondence was read from 74 urban centres dealing chiefly with the extension of the Rents Act and its amendment, so as to protect all classes of town tenants from profiteering in rents. The Hon. Secretary of the Ennistymon Branch, Co. Clare, wrote that a collection was being made to assist the Executive with the work now in hands. Similar letters were received from numerous other centres, and subscriptions were received from individual town tenants in Mullingar, Newbridge, Waterford, Sharcock, and Naas.

A gentleman, who is a prominent official at the Four Courts, attended that afternoon to state his case to Mr. Coghlan Briscoe. He took his house in 1908 on an agreement of ten years, which is now expired, at £110 per annum and taxes. The rates then were £32, they are now £63. It was an old house, in bad repair, and the tenant had spent £300 in making it habitable. Before the war the purchasing value of the house was from £800 to £900. The owner had recently asked £2,500. The price was an impossible one, and notice to quit had been served. The tenant stated that he found it absolutely impossible to get a house, and the house agents had informed him that they had not a single vacant house on their books. He was prepared, if necessary, to go to London and give evidence regarding his and other cases before the Committee considering the Rents Act.

Several tenants attended from Upper Rathmines, Pembroke district, and other parts of Dublin with similar grievances, and it was decided to forward a precis of the cases to Lord Salisbury's Committee, with a strong expression of opinion that no limitation as to rent ought to be inserted in the amending bill.

In connection with these cases Mr. Coghlan Briscoe said that they were only samples of hundreds of similar ones which had come before him since his return from London. Profiteering in houses was rampant, and it might be necessary to call a public meeting of Dublin merchants and professional men who were now threatened with eviction unless they agreed to pay four or five times the pre-war value of the houses, so as to impress on the Government the seriousness of the situation and the absolute necessity of protecting the homes of the people. If profiteering was to be stopped there ought to be no limitation as to rent in the bill now to be drafted. He (Mr. Briscoe) had pressed this view on the Committee sitting in London. It would be for the tenants, not only in Dublin, but all over Ireland, to be extremely active and alive to the dangers that threatened them. The Act would expire in about ten weeks, and the amending bill would be ready for introduction within a month, so that there was very little time to do work which vitally concerned every town tenant in Ireland, from the room-keeper to the tenants of suburban villas. He had attended at Messrs. Battersby's, Westmoreland street, Dublin, where the house at Morehampton road of a member of their organisation was offered for public auction. He bid for the tenant what he considered was a fair price, and was glad to say that the lady got her house, as there was no other bidder. He mentioned this in order to show town tenants the value of organisation, and in order to impress on them the fact that unless town tenants were organised they would be at the mercy of profiteering landlords.

The Executive having considered further amendments to be inserted in the Extending Bill, the meeting adjourned.

MOTOR TYRES

See Testimonials

Manchester, November 10th, 1919.
I had no idea that the Almagam Tyre Co., which I presume is you, was the same as the A.R.M., as I had intended writing you regarding one of my tyres, which was an A.R.M. tyre, and which was without exception the best tyre I ever had on my car. I continued to use the tyre, and ran it for 1,200 miles, long after it should have been scrapped, and when I eventually took off the tyre I found that the inner tube had not even been punctured.

Ashford, Kent, October 21st, 1919.
I would state that I had one of my motor tyres retreaded with Almagam rubber some few years back. This tyre has gone over 5,000 miles, and I am now using it as a spare.

Worcester, 25th April
You may possibly recollect that you have retreaded tyres from me, and that the last you did ran at quite a good mileage—6,200

Worcester, December 3rd, 1918.
Have sent you another tyre. Please retread as good as last, which was excellent, and has run 4,000 miles. Please send soon and oblige.

HOW CAN YOU GET THIS?

—By sending your worn tyres to be retreaded instead of throwing them away.

The high price of motor tyres is caused by the outrageous price that has to be paid at present for the Egyptian Cotton fabric of which the tyre is made. Every tyre you have retreaded reduces the demand for cotton. A new tyre sometimes gives out before the tread has worn at all owing to a defect in the canvas caused in the moulding of the tyre. This cannot be seen until the tyre comes back for retreading. All these defects are opened out and put right before we put a new tread on. It is impossible for the ordinary motorist to know from the look of their tyres whether they will stand retreading or not.

We retread with Steel Studded Treads any make of cover. Special quotations given.

A.R.M. Motor Tubes are not cheaper in price than other makes, but they are better tubes, the valve seating being vulcanised in the tube. Other manufacturers are attempting to copy this.

PICCADILLY
VIRGINIA CIGARETTES

Some manufacturers take such pride in the goods they make that they would rather withdraw them from the market than see them suffer in quality. For some time supplies of Piccadilly Cigarettes had to be restricted, but fortunately that anxious time is gone.

Smokers of Piccadilly Cigarettes have long known and recommended them as the highest attainment in the art of cigarette making. What business folly it would have been to have ruined their reputation for a temporary gain. Public confidence is too precious to lose. That is why you will never find any tobacco in Piccadilly Cigarettes but the finest Virginia from the Old Belt and Eastern Carolina districts, selected leaf by leaf.

ST. JAMES'S PARISH ENTERTAINMENT.—On Wednesday evening a very successful musical at-home was given by Miss V. Barnett and her pupils in St. James's Schoolhouse, Dolphin's Barn, Dublin, the attendance being very large, and the programme being of a particularly bright and entertaining character. The contributions embraced vocal and instrumental items, as well as dances, in all of which the little ones showed much ability and careful training, the result reflecting much credit on their teacher. A comedy, "Up-to-Date," was not the least pleasing feature of the programme. It provided much amusement, and the parts were excellently taken by the Misses Mattie Williamson, Margaret Tapley, Beatrice Hubbard, Queenie Gilbert, and Bessie Burchell. During the evening Miss Barnett was made the recipient of a handsome gift and illuminated address from her musical pupils by the Rev. J. C. Irwin, B.D., as a token of the esteem in which she is held by them. The enjoyable proceedings concluded with the singing of the National Anthem.
